Tell and Show

Q. Last winter the Standard Oil Co. built a service station at Donald Douglas Drive and Lakewood Boulevard. They also erected a building with open sides about 50 feet to the north of the station. What is this building for? F.T.F., Long Beach.

A. The building is to be used as a showroom for new lines of aircraft, according to Nicholas Dallas, director of aeronautics at the Long Beach Airport.

Top Kick

Q. Why do public pools require women to wear bathing caps? It seems unfair that men, who wear hair oil and whose hair is as long as many women, do not have to wear them. Mrs. T.L.H., Long Beach.

A. Men with hair longer than 3 inches do have to wear caps in all pools operated by the Long Beach Recreation Department. While there are no laws here dealing with the subject, most pools have rules requiring women to wear caps. The reason is twofold. Women's — or men's — long hair, left in a pool, tends to plug up pool filters. Why more stress is placed on women wearing caps, however, is because of the damage to the pool's lining from dropped hairpins. The steel pins quickly rust and form disfiguring little brown streaks on the pool bottom.

Wrong Address

Q. I bought a subscription to Ebony Magazine about a year and a half ago and received only three copies. I have moved since then and wrote to them providing my new address. I have heard nothing since May of last year. Can you help me? L.S., Long Beach.

A. You should send your new and old addresses along with your account number which appears on the mailing label of the magazine to Enice Porter, Ebony Magazine, Subscription Department, 1820 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60616. They did not receive your new address, Miss Porter told ACTION LINE, and the magazines must have been sent to your old address.

Hostel Not Hostile

Q. After I am graduated from college next year, I want to take a trip to Europe. Where can I get information about youth hostels, camping facilities, lodging and meeting-the-people programs? J.M., Wilmington.

A. Contact American Youth Hostels Inc., 318 N. La Brea Ave., Los Angeles, 933-4412, any Monday or Thursday between noon and 4 p.m. The AYH puts out a booklet on hostels which sells for $1.10. The organization also sponsors several tour groups to Europe and other parts of the world, plus a regular program of local outdoor travel activities such as cycling. An AYH membership pass for adults costs $7.10 and entitles you to stay in hostels in some 37 countries. Another organization which can be helpful to you is the People-to-People Foundation, which sponsors Meet-the-People tours. Lettie Bond, regional director for People-to-People, said she would try to help you if you will contact her. Her address is 12128 Orizaba Ave. in Downey. She added that she is now taking applications from teachers who would like to lead People-to-People groups in Europe.

Crosby Clambake

Q. My husband and I would love to attend the Bing Crosby Pro Amateur Golf Tournament at Monterey, but by the time we find out the dates of the tournament it's always too late to get hotel reservations in Carmel. We are making our plans early this year and wonder if it's possible to get next year's tournament dates, P.M., Long Beach.

A. The tournament will be held Jan. 23 through Jan. 26, according to Betty Martin, Monterey Chamber of Commerce convention coordinator. She agreed that housing is a problem during the tournament and suggests you write immediately for reservations. For complete lists of hotels in the Carmel-Monterey area, write to the Chamber of Commerce, Visitor and Convention Bureau, P.O. Box 1770, Monterey, Calif. 93946.

REACTION

In a recent ACTION LINE answer about competitive swimming for children here, you left out one of the best teams — that of the Los Altos YMCA. It is composed of 100 swimmers, boasts an Olympic swimmer and several swimmers of national stature and has an excellent program for children. Dick Miller, a great American swimmer, is the coach. G.B., Long Beach.

As publicity chairman of the Long Beach Mineral and Gem Society, may I offer you another suggestion for your reader who was interested in classes in lapidary and silversmithing. Our hobby group, having been organized here for 31 years, holds meetings at the Wardlow Park Clubhouse, 2457 Standbridge Ave., the second Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m. We have speakers and displays having to do with rocks, minerals, lapidary fossils, carving and silversmithing and subjects related to the earth sciences. Although we have no formal classes, many of our members have equipment and would be glad to show how it operates along with demonstrating the techniques involved. Guests are always welcome and an open invitation is extended for persons with an interest in the rock-hound hobby to join us. P.L., Long Beach.

Fortas Chances Fading

Dirksen Switches;
LBJ Pressured
to Withdraw Name

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abe Fortas's chances of winning Senate confirmation as Chief Justice appeared to be growing slimmer Friday as the Senate set a test vote for Tuesday.

Backers of Fortas suffered a severe jolt when Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told reporters he was having second thoughts about supporting the nomination.

Calls for President Johnson to withdraw the nomination came from both sides of the political aisle.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told the Senate Fortas should ask Johnson to withdraw his name to avoid "serious injury to the Democratic party and its candidates for president and vice president."

"Worst of all," McClellan said, "there will be further impairment of public confidence in the Supreme Court" unless Johnson drops his effort to promote Fortas from associate to Chief Justice.

"I say this in kindness and a spirit of friendship," said McClellan, who declared that "obstinate insistence" on Senate confirmation could only produce a long and bitter debate.

ON THE Republican side, Sen. Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming said the nomination not only "should be withdrawn" but Fortas

Much Sun, Little Heat Due in L.B.

Mostly sunny weather, but patchy fog and local cloudiness during early-morning hours is forecast for the Long Beach area this weekend by the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Gusty 15 to 30 mph winds will swirl through mountain and desert areas, and temperatures will become cooler in coastal and intermediate valleys and inland sections, according to the official prediction.

High temperatures at beaches will be near 70, between 70 and 80 in coastal and intermediate valleys, in the low 70s in mountain areas, near 90 in upper deserts, and about 100 in lower desert valleys.

Court Orders Cleaver Back to State Prison

Mexican Students Vow Win

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — More than 3,000 students staged an orderly rally Friday night and vowed to carry on with their violent demonstrations "until final victory" against President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz.

A series of student leaders addressed the crowd from balconies above the Plaza of Three Cultures and denounced the "imperialist and militaristic government" while their followers stood in a steady drizzle and cheered wildly.

The leaders spoke over loud speakers and stayed out of sight. They were not introduced by name. One of them said, "The Olympics must be carried out in peace — but not in this kind of peace."

THE RALLY broke up after more than an hour of speeches when the drizzle turned into a driving rain. Police stood around the plaza but did not interfere.

The threat of more demonstrations cast doubts on an expected "truce" between students and the government during the Olympics.

In the capital, reinstated Rector Javier Barros of the National University called on the army to pull its troops out of University City and allow classes to resume. At the same time, Barros reminded embattled students they, too, had responsibilities for preserving law and order.

BARROS had resigned as rector earlier this week when government legislators criticized him for allowing the university to become a hotbed of subversion. He had criticized army seizure of the university. He withdrew his resignation when faculty members and students gave him an overwhelming vote of confidence.

However, in Mexico's interior, 11,000 students marched through Puebla in support of their Mexico City colleagues, about 3,000 staged a protest "march of silence" in Merida, two "solidarity" marches took place in Chihuahua, and Tampico students declared a sympathy strike.

HHH Needles Nixon Over Debate Issue

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
From Our National Bureau

PORTLAND, Ore. — Believing he has detected a wobble in the smoothly-spinning Nixon campaign, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Friday intensified his demands that the GOP nominee agree to debate him.

At every opportunity during a half-dozen appearances in California and Oregon, the vice president needed Nixon for the Republican's refusal to engage him in a discussion from the same platform.

He retorted sharply after Humphrey described Humphrey's debate demands as "kid stuff" one goes through when he's behind.

Humphrey and his aides view Nixon's handling of the issue as an important "wobble" since a statement the Republican candidate made Thursday had been interpreted as a willingness to debate.

Humphrey seized upon the "kid stuff" quote and threw it back at Nixon:

"Mr. Nixon, you can call this child stuff or kid stuff, but I call this the stuff of statesmen," he said in a San Francisco television interview. "If you're unwilling to debate with me, Mr. Nixon, how do you think you're going to stand up against the leaders of other countries when their national interests are at stake?"

He developed this theme and that of a "managed, contrived" Nixon campaign as he went on to appearances at a businessmen's luncheon, a suburban high school's mock convention and an auditorium rally at Portland.

"It's a lot easier to talk to (Soviet Premier Alexei) Kosygin than it is to Mr. Nixon," he injected in a talk on economics before the Portland businessmen where he urged that revised income taxes replace much of the burden of property and sales taxes.

DURING a Portland television appearance, he suggested a format in which each candidate would state his view, be cross-examined by his opponents and then allow themselves to be questioned by an audience.

Humphrey again expressed his willingness to debate with Nixon and

Nixon Says Demos Exploiting Wallace

By MAX FRANKEL
New York Times Service

TAMPA, Fla. Richard M. Nixon portrayed George C. Wallace as the "secret weapon" of the Democrats Friday as he pressed his Southern argument that a vote for the third-party candidate will only result in "four more years of the same."

Nixon pleaded with "angry Americans" not to "throw away their votes on a third-party fling" as he developed his thesis that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey is now attempting to "build up Mr. Wallace to defeat the Republicans where he himself cannot do so."

On the ground that he would not "play that game" and with some words of contempt for his Democratic opposition, Nixon again brushed aside what he interpreted as efforts to draw him into a three-man television debate among the presidential contenders.

HE SAID he would not reply to Humphrey's telegram proposing a start of negotiations for a debate because the Democrats were "just thrashing in the wind" in a moment of weakness.

Humphrey should know, Nixon asserted, that a three-man debate would undermine the two-party system and that a two-man debate is not possible until Congress suspends the equal-time rule require-

Violation of Parole Ruled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Controversial Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver was ordered back into prison Friday as a parole violator.

The State Court of Appeals reversed a lower court judge who had freed Cleaver from state prison on grounds the Negro writer was being held because of his political views.

Cleaver, 33, currently is the focus of a controversy between the University of California at Berkeley and the university's Board of Regents headed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

He was appointed to deliver 10 lectures in experimental sociology course at the university, but the Board of Regents ruled he could only give one guest lecture. The matter was stirred up an issue over academic freedom.

CLEAVER served nine years in state prison on a conviction for assault to commit rape, assault to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon. Released on parole he joined the staff of Ramparts Magazine and became active in the militant Black Panther Party.

Arrested during a shooting outbreak between a group of Panthers and Oakland police April 6, he was sent back to prison for violating terms of his parole.

But Superior Court Judge Raymond J. Sherwin of Solano County, in which he was being held, ordered his release. State officials appealed the matter to the higher court.

The decision ordering Cleaver back into prison was written by Justice Richard Simms and concurred in by two other appeals judges. It specifically orders Judge Sherwin to keep hands off the Cleaver case.

THE CLERK of the Appellate Court said Cleaver probably would remain free pending an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Benjamin Dreyfus, Cleaver's attorney, said, "We will petition the State Supreme Court for a hearing."

"This is certainly not final until we have an opportunity to seek a review of the appeal court decision, and we will do that as soon as the rules permit."

Home in Integrated District Firebombed

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Two firebombs were thrown from a speeding car early Friday at the home of a middle-aged woman and her partly crippled mother.

Neighbors helped the pair, Mrs. Ruby Lee Scott, 53, and Mrs. Leona Miles, 75, out of their burning home and extinguished the blaze with a garden hose. The women could give no reason for the attacks.

GIs Surprise N. Viets

SAIGON Saturday — American GIs flushed out a force of North Vietnamese troops near the Duc Lap Green Beret camp and killed 32 Communist soldiers with the help of artillery and air strikes, U.S. spokesmen reported today. U.S. troops from the 4th Infantry Division swept through old battlefields around the Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border and engaged the

INTERNATIONAL
Unknown-sized force of North Vietnamese in a three-hour battle Friday. The GIs lost seven killed and nine wounded in the battle. In the air war, U.S. 5-62 bombers and fighter-bombers blasted jungles along the Cambodian border Friday to crush North Vietnamese suicide attacks on Allied outposts astride infiltration routes leading to Saigon.

REDS SHARE REWARD
SAIGON — Two North Vietnamese army defectors Friday shared a $30,000 reward for helping U.S. troops locate enough weapons and ammunition for a full regiment of Communist soldiers. The cash awards of about $18,000 to Nguyen Van Bank, 33, and about $12,000 to Duong Cao were made by President Nguyen Van Thieu and Prime Minister Tran Van Huong. The two North Vietnamese pledged to donate about $1,000 of the reward for the relief of civilian victims.

10,000 Biafrans Starve Daily
GENEVA — Biafran refugees now are dying of starvation at a rate of 8,000 to 10,000 a day, the International Committee of the Red Cross said Friday. The committee strongly criticized both Biafran and Nigerian authorities for refusing to permit creation of a land or river relief corridor into Biafra or a daytime food airlift.

Czech Press Lambastes Russ
PRAGUE — Czechoslovakia's recalcitrant press Friday unleashed a stinging new attack against the Warsaw Pact occupation powers and their rigidly censored newspapers for printing "lies," "slanders" and "insults" against Czechoslovakia. The new ideological journal of the Czechoslovak Communist Party, Politika, led the attack. Politika ridiculed the Soviet "White Book," which detailed Kremlin charges of a counterrevolution in Czechoslovakia that justified the Warsaw Pact invasion. Politika said the document "could not even deceive a child."

Pueblo Crew's Rights Stated
WASHINGTON — The Navy said Friday the 82 surviving members of the USS Pueblo will be accorded all their legal rights if and when they are released by North Korea. The statement was issued following publication of a report which said that the crew members would not be advised of their legal rights before being questioned. Paul H. Nitze, deputy defense secretary said, "Returnees will be accorded all of the legal rights and privileges to which they are entitled at every stage of processing."

France Again Vetoes Britain
BRUSSELS — France vetoed British membership in the European Common Market Friday for the third, and perhaps decisive, time. French Foreign Minister Michel Debre turned down a West German proposal that the six Common Market nations negotiate a trade pact with Britain as an interim stage pending full British membership. The five Common Market nations in favor of admitting Britain now consider it hopeless to discuss the matter again at the six-nation level and plan to try within the larger organization.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS Churchmen Bail Out of St. Paul's

Combined News Service

The white-haired dean, a canon and three cathedral officials jumped off St. Paul's Cathedral Friday by parachute. It was the Church of England's latest bid to win the attention of youth. It certainly got attention from London lunchtime crowds. "It's a most exhilarating feeling and I recommend everybody to go," said New Zealand-born Dean Martin G. Sullivan, 58, after a safe landing. "You certainly do have a feeling of freedom."

"I must admit I said a little prayer," confesses Canon Douglas Bean as he untangled his cassock from the harness. "It's a most extraordinary sensation."

The simulated jumping by controlled parachutes was organized by the army's parachute regiment to mark the official opening of a three-month youth festival in Sir Christopher Wren's historic domed cathedral. "Now what about a ball in Westminster Abbey," said one elderly businessman in the crowd. "Undignified," huffed another. "What's the Church coming to?"

First man off was W. A. Talbot-Ponsonby, coordinator of the youth festival program, followed by 51-year-old Arthur Morrison, the preacher's verger. Third was Verion Overington, 60, the dean's verger. Asked why parachute jumping had been used for opening the festival, Talbot-Ponsonby said, "to show what young people are doing in the field of service and this is what these chaps are doing."

WINS, LOSES

Actress Dorothy Malone Friday won court permission to move her daughters to Dallas, Tex., but lost her bid for increased child support from former husband Jacques Bergerac, 41. However, the French-born actor was given increased visitation rights, with Miss Malone, 43, to pay half the costs of transporting Mimi, 8 and Diane, 6, to Hollywood from Dallas for the visits. A request by Miss Malone that child support payments be increased to $600 monthly from $300 was denied. The actress plans to retire to Dallas, where she grew up.

WHITE HOUSE BIRTH OUT FOR LYND

Lynda Bird Robb will have her baby at Bethesda Naval Hospital despite some pleas that she have it in the more historically attractive White House. The White House, of course, has adequate medical facilities for childbirth and some White House staff members thought Lynda, President Johnson's older daughter, should have her baby there because it would look better in the history books. But Lynda, whose first child is due late next month, has indicated she prefers the Navy hospital where her father has gone for his medical care. Lynda, 24, has lined up two bassinets for the baby — one that belonged to her sister Luci Nugent's infant son, Patrick, and one that belonged to her husband, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, when he was a baby.

SPYCATCHER

Lt. Col. Sir Rex Benson, banker, diplomat and former spycatcher at the time of the Mata Hari case, died while vacationing in Italy, London sources reported Friday. He was 78. Sir Rex worked on spy cases with the French secret police in the months before the 1917 execution of Mata Hari, the famed woman spy. Sir Rex was active in family banking interests and was chairman of the English and New York Trust until April 1967. He was married in 1932 to Leslie Foster Nast of Lake Forest, Ill. His widow and two sons survive.

NOBUO STRICKEN

Nobuo Miyazaki, Asia's only living heart transplant patient, has developed serum hepatitis, his surgeon said Friday. It was the first setback suffered by the 18-year-old Miyazaki since he underwent the surgery seven weeks ago in Sapporo.

ARTIFICIAL HEART 'RACE' IN HOUSTON

Dr. Denton Cooley, who has done more heart transplants than any other surgeon, said Friday he planned ultimately to build an artificial heart because of the scarcity of donors. Dr. Cooley, in a Houston interview, said he hoped to build an artificial heart in five years.

Dr. Michael DeBakey, a "friendly" rival at the Texas Medical Center, also hopes to build an artificial heart within five years. DeBakey already has developed the primary portion of his heart, a left ventricle pump, and used it seven times since 1966. "I don't believe much of that work will be transferable to our program," Cooley said. "I plan to build one on another basis."

They will be working less than a block apart, Cooley in the new Texas Heart Institute and DeBakey in the Fondren and Brown Cardiovascular Research Center. Cooley, who has performed 11 transplants since May 3, has not made an adult transplant since Aug. 19 because of lack of a donor.

Cooley, who said five months ago that an artificial heart was impractical, always was considered an advocate of transplants while DeBakey was the advocate of the artificial heart.

ON U.S. TOUR Filipino Mayor Visits Carson

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

The mayor of the seventh largest city in the Philippine Islands visited Carson Friday as part of a tour of industrial cities in the United States.

Mayor Camilo P. Cabili was invited on the tour by the U.S. State Department because his city, Iligan, will be the site of the first integrated steel mill in the Philippines.

"The most impressive thing about the United States is its more or less full employment," Mayor Cabili said. "Your generally high level of prosperity can be traced directly to it."

Cabili explained that unemployment is one of the major problems of his country. "I believe that our government should make maximum effort to develop projects that will stimulate full employment," he said.

"Your system of free-ways in Southern California is very impressive, but it only reflects the tremendous prosperity of the United States," he said.

"If you were not a prosperous nation, you couldn't afford to build the freeways and there would be no need for them if workers didn't need them to get to their jobs," Cabili observed.

Cabili was elected mayor of Iligan City nine years ago and is now serving in his third term. He was first invited to visit the United States in 1962 but delayed the trip because he was supervising Philippine government projects in the city.

"The president and I were both of the same party then," he explained, "but we have a new president now. He is a Nationalist and I am a Liberal, so there are no federal projects for my city right now."

"Mr. Cabili is studying the integration of industry into the total community," Mayor John Marbut explained. "He is interested in discovering means of attracting industry to his city without causing conflicts between people and industrial complexes."

21 STRICKEN AT MARINE BASE

Hong Kong Flu Hits Southland

From Our L.A. Bureau

The Hong Kong flu virus has reached Southern California.

Dr. Gerald A. Heidebreder, Los Angeles County health officer, disclosed Friday that 21 personnel at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego have been stricken with clinical influenza.

Fifteen of the flu victims returned recently from Viet Nam, where the A2 Hong Kong virus strain has been raging.

The flu virus struck earlier in Northern California, where a Redwood City airline employee took ill last summer after a trip to Hong Kong.

Though no cases have been diagnosed in Los Angeles County, Dr. Heidebreder forecast "It appears we can expect small outbreaks in California within three months."

In San Diego, symptoms reported were muscle pain, dry cough, low grade fever and eye pain. It was a relatively mild illness.

"If the pattern follows that of the 1957 epidemic, after several isolated incidences over several months it is not impossible there will be an outbreak of considerable proportion in this county," according to Dr. Heidebreder.

He urged elderly or chronically diseased patients to see a doctor at the first sign of illness.

Sentenced for Giving Tot Pot Nominate 20 from L.B. Area for Grand Jury Duty

Robert S. Rodgers, the Anaheim man who admitted supplying his five-year-old son with marijuana to smoke, Friday was sentenced to 1 year in jail and faces deportation to his native Canada.

Superior Court Judge William C. Speirs initially ordered Rodgers to state prison but suspended the prison sentence for a probationary period of three years on the condition that he serve the one-year county jail term and then be deported.

Rodgers had been free on a $1,250 bond since narcotics officers arrested him Jan. 12 following a week's investigation touched off when Robert J. began telling his playmates how he used marijuana.

Police apprehended Rodgers in his Anaheim apartment at 801 N. Loara St. and booked him on suspicion of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, furnishing marijuana to a minor and possession of marijuana.

Arrest S.F. Man for HHH Threat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 31-year-old locksmith was jailed Friday following an indirect threat by telephone on the life of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

He was one of four arrested in connection with Humphrey's visit.

Police said a man telephoned radio station KGO around 7:40 a.m. and said a bomb was timed to go off there in five minutes, while the Democratic presidential candidate was taping a broadcast. No bomb was found.

Police inspector Sam Quinn said the caller appeared to be having trouble with the phone, left it off the hook and went to a second phone from which the threat was repeated. The first call was traced.

Quinn said when he arrived at a York Street apartment he found Stephen A. Rivera complaining about trouble with his telephone. Rivera was booked on a charge of making bomb threats via telephone.

The other three were arrested Thursday.

E.A. Student Sit-ins Stay Overnight

Mexican-American students protesting conditions in East Los Angeles schools by staging a sit-in at the Board of Education offices have been locked up for the weekend. Some 35 to 40 persons remained in the building when the usual 6 p.m. closing time for public offices came.

A plan aimed at easing the tension surrounding Sal Castro, deposed Lincoln High School teacher, was announced by Rev. James E. Jones, president of the Board of Education. Castro is under indictment by the county grand jury on a conspiracy charge in connection with a boycott of four East Los Angeles high schools, including Lincoln, last March.

The demonstrators had vowed to remain in the board room until Castro is returned to duty in the classroom.

Jones said that on Monday, he would recommend to the full board establishment of a group with "dialogical and conciliatory powers."

He said the group would be asked to "recommend whatever is necessary to ease the tension and put the educational machinery back into mobility."

Jury Chosen for Trial of 5 Collegians

Selection of a jury and two alternate jurors was completed Friday for the trial of five California State College at Long Beach students on charges of disturbing the peace and failure to disperse during a May 29 campus demonstration.

Trial will begin at 9 a.m. Monday in the Municipal Court of Judge John C. Spence Jr. for Richard V. Anthony, 22; Byron T. Brooks, 18; David E. Carman, 20; William J. Ruch Jr., 20, and Carol Sue Roderick.

The five defendants are the last of 42 persons arrested during a campus "militant" to protest the cancellation of an exhibit of sex-oriented statuary created by a CSCLB graduate student.

Two men were arrested while Humphrey was attending a meeting of the Obrero Social Centre, a Mission District labor group.

Stephen M. Weissman, 28, a one-time Berkeley campus activist, was charged with inciting to riot and battery, and Stephen Kessler was arrested when he jumped into the police van carrying Weissman. The charge was interfering with police.

As Humphrey spoke to the California Commonwealth Club at the Sheraton-Place Hotel at noon, John N. Beck II, a law student, was arrested on a charge of slugging a federal officer assigned to guard the vice president.

Debate Bid Spurned by Nixon

ing the participation of all candidates in a televised confrontation.

Moving Friday from Kentucky through Tennessee and on to Florida, where he regards Wallace rather than Humphrey as the principal competition, Nixon thus deflected the latest Humphrey bid for debates and turned the approach into a part of his plea to Southerners tempted by the Wallace candidacy.

That plea was underlined by Nixon's repetition of some of the complaints and arguments that Southern voters have heard from Wallace. Nixon also stressed his chance of winning, his interest in positive programs as well as protest and his desire to bring new hope and opportunity to black and white Americans.

While visiting Chattanooga Friday afternoon, Nixon directed attention to three of his special political interests. He visited Chickamauga Dam and heaped praise upon the Tennessee Valley Authority which his predecessors at the head of the Republican ticket used to denounce as "creeping socialism" or even mark for "sale" to private enterprise.

THEN, while addressing 5,000 persons including many youngsters released from private schools for the day, Nixon called attention to a statement he had prepared describing Washington as the "crime capital" of the world and promising a new safety to its citizens. After the rally, perhaps because of his proximity to the Cherokee Indian reservation, Nixon distributed another statement denouncing the plight of American Indians and pledging efforts to make them "part of the mainstream of American life."

Selection of a jury and two alternate jurors was completed Friday for the trial of five California State College at Long Beach students on charges of disturbing the peace and failure to disperse during a May 29 campus demonstration.

Man Faces Hearing in Stepdad's Death

A Long Beach man, accused of pumping 22-caliber bullets into his fleeing stepfather as the older man hurled himself through a second-floor bathroom window and died below, was ordered held without bail Friday.

Preliminary hearing will be Oct. 11 for Robert Mooney, 25, of 339 E. 19th St., arraigned in Municipal Court a day after he turned himself in at Long Beach police headquarters.

Humphrey Needles 'Mr. Nixon'

George Wallace "because he is a viable candidate," but said he would prefer to confine such an appearance to Nixon and himself. Nixon has said he will not debate Wallace and could not debate Humphrey alone under rules governing television political appearance.

Increasingly, he used the debate issue as a means of painting Nixon as a "managed candidate" who presents form but little substance through Madison Ave. advertising techniques.

Calling Nixon "The Shadow," Humphrey likened his campaign to the merchandizing of canned dog food during a talk Friday night at the Portland Civic Auditorium.

HE CLAIMED that Nixon has not been on a television interview show "with unrehearsed questions, without canned applause" for two years.

Humphrey himself has been appearing on local "call-in" and interview shows at every opportunity—as much as three times a day.

Humphrey as much as admits that his pressure for a nationally televised debate—or preferably a series of them—is partly motivated by a desire for video exposure that his pinched-purse campaign can't afford.

Failing in this, Humphrey and his aides see advantages in creating an image of a "robot" Nixon afraid to debate lest there be a repetition of his losing 1960 video appearances with John F. Kennedy.

They believe that Nixon is thin-skinned on the subject, and that it could cause him to lose the cool that he's exhibited so far. Humphrey views Nixon's reactions of the past two days as a sign that this may be happening.

"He's beginning to run," Humphrey said about the debate issue.

Body of Stanford Professor Found

STANFORD (AP) — The decomposed body of a missing retired woman professor from Stanford University was discovered Friday on a campus hillside.

Police said Dr. Anna F. Barnett, retired clinical assistant professor of medicine at Stanford Medical School, was reported missing Sept. 13.

FBI Nabs Suspect in Hollywood Theft

RENO (UPI) — The FBI Friday announced the arrest of Alice Fross Caple in connection with the theft of a $500,000 tapestry from a home in Hollywood.

The complaint charged her with interstate transportation of stolen property involving the 15th Century tapestry taken from the home of Mrs. Carla Griggs on July 7.

Police investigators said Mooney told them the victim, Charles Odis Dixon, 33, of the same address, repeatedly threatened to kill his entire family in the last two weeks.

Thursday night, Dixon raged into a bedroom in the home, grabbed a pistol, loaded it and pointed it at Mooney, the suspect told police.

Mooney told investigators he wrestled the weapon from his stepfather and fired five bullets at him. Dixon was dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital. Mooney surrendered two hours later.

Homicide Sgts. Lew Lyons and Ken Schack said Mooney told them Dixon hurled himself head first through the bathroom window attempting to escape.

Dixon was found 10 feet away from the window in an alley.

DIRKSEN SWITCHES POSITION ON FORTAS
Reads Statement Saying He Will Vote No for Cloture

Dirksen Defects, Fortas Hopes Dim

Tuesday's showdown vote will be on a petition to close debate and end a filibuster by opponents who are blocking a motion to consider the appointment.

An Associated Press poll Wednesday gave the opponents 35 votes, or one more than necessary to prevent invoking the cloture rule limiting debate. A two-thirds majority of senators voting is needed to put the rule into effect. If all 100 senators are present, 34 no votes are enough to defeat cloture.

Friday Dirksen joined these opposing cloture.

Some of the criticism aimed at Fortas has been based on his participation in Supreme Court decisions overturning obscenity convictions.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., told colleagues he felt they had a duty to see some of the pornographic films that figured in Judiciary Committee hearings on Fortas' nomination.

McClellan said the Senate will have to clear the galleries and go into secret session if some of the evidence in the committee's record is shown.

HE SAID he was referring to films, pictures, magazines and books "so indecent and so degrading" that they could not be shown to a mixed audience.

"You'd blush if you were in a dark room by yourself," he said. And yet, McClellan said, these materials have in effect been legalized by Supreme Court decisions that he said opened "the floodgates to pornography."

"Call it a filibuster if you want to," said McClellan, "but these things have got to be gone into."

Dirksen said somewhat cryptically that if he had known before what he knows now, he would have "left it open" as to whether he would vote to confirm Fortas.

As for Tuesday's vote on a petition to invoke the debate-limiting cloture rule, Dirksen said he will be against it. This is a switch from his previous position and it brought dismay to administration forces hoping to end the filibuster.

DEMOCRATIC Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who initiated the cloture petition, said the loss of Dirksen's support "sure as hell will" make it more difficult to break the filibuster, now in its third day.

When Mansfield was asked if a second attempt will be made to impose cloture, if the first one fails, he said he will not

Lakewood Kidnap Suspect Says Truth Not Being Told

By WATT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A 39-year-old Lakewood man, accused of kidnaping the young son of a Beverly Hills banker for a quarter million dollars ransom claimed in court Friday the "actual truth" about the abduction hasn't been told.

Robert Lee Dacy, of 6108 E. Tanglewood St., listened to more than an hour of prosecution testimony in Beverly Hills Municipal Court, then said he would plead innocent to kidnaping 4½-year-old Stanley Stalford Jr.

He is accused of entering the Stalford's Beverly Hills home, tying and gagging the boy's mother and keeping the boy in custody for two days in a Lakewood motel while making unsuccessful arrangements to exchange the tot for the money.

Dacy was arrested Aug. 30 after a high-speed auto chase through south central Los Angeles which ended when FBI Agent Paul Chamberlain rammed Dacy's car with his own.

After the hearing, Dacy refused to explain what he thought was untrue in testimony by the boy's mother, Mrs. Joanne Stalford, FBI agent Paul Chamberlain and other witnesses.

"I am somewhat perturbed," the thin, dark-haired defendant said. "I don't think the actual truth has been told about what happened."

He said Deputy Public Defender Raymond F. Crigger had told him not to discuss the case.

Municipal Court Judge Leonard S. Wolf turned down Crigger's motion to quash charges against Dacy and ordered him held without bail for Superior Court arraignment on charges carrying a possible death penalty.

There are two charges of kidnaping against Dacy.

the second for tying Mrs. Stalford in a closet before taking her son—and one charge of assault with a deadly weapon against FBI agents.

Mrs. Stalford testified that before Dacy left her home as he told her:

"I want $250,000 in $20 bills. I know the penalty for this. It's his life (the boy's) or my life. Don't call the police."

Under questioning by Deputy Dist. Atty. Billy Webb, Mrs. Stalford, an attractive blonde, was asked if she recognized Dacy in the courtroom as the man who entered her home.

"Oh yes, no question," she said.

She testified he told her "that if we did exactly as he said, my son would be all right."

"He always had the gun on me. He asked me five times, 'You have no money in the house?' I said no. And he said, sarcastically, 'and you're a millionaire's wife.'"

FBI Agent Chamberlain testified as he chased

Dacy's car shots punctured his windshield just before he rammed the suspect vehicle.

"He grabbed the boy around the waist with his left arm, pulling him in front of him, and put his right arm on the window with his gun."

"He turned and placed the gun to the boy's ear. Then as other FBI men were creeping up on his car and I was 10 feet away, he pointed the gun at me and pulled the trigger twice."

"I heard two clicks. Then he opened the cylinder of his gun, looked in an flipped it shut."

Specialist Warns of Colitis Cause

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Chronic cathartic users, usually elderly women, sometimes turn up with symptoms resembling the serious disorder of chronic ulcerative colitis, a medical specialist said in Long Beach Friday.

The specialist, Dr. Arthur Schwabe, chief of gastroenterology at UCLA Medical School, termed the patients "elderly ladies with diarrhea" who also may have x-ray films that mislead the doctor.

CLOSER investigation may disclose these women have been using strong cathartics every day over a long period.

"Some of these women take these cathartics like they were vitamins," he said. "They even forget they are taking them."

One of the main offenders is the drug cascara, he said.

Dr. Schwabe spoke at a luncheon meeting of doctors at St. Mary's Hospital.

He said it's difficult to convince many of these patients it's not necessary to have a daily bowel movement.

If the patients can be convinced to abstain from cathartics, it may take as long as a year for the disorder to clear up.

Dr. Schwabe also discussed true ulcerative colitis, which is an inflammatory and ulcerative disease of the colon. He said the cause is still unknown, although there often is a family history, leading some observers to believe there may be hereditary predisposition to the ailment.

NOT ONLY may the disorder affect the colon but it may also involve the skin, eyes, heart and other organs, he reminded. It can cause arthritis too.

"Treatment varies not only from coast to coast but from institution to institution," he said. "There is no uniformity."

He said treatment must be tailored to the patient.

A sulfa drug, Azulfidine, is sometimes beneficial because it has a special anti-inflammatory effect, he said. The drug is not given because it combats germs, he stressed.

Medics Up Fees to Defray Insurance Hikes

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Medical costs are going up again, and this time it's going to be the doctor bill, medical authorities and insurance specialists disclosed Friday.

Reason: a sharp increase in malpractice insurance rates, effective next Tuesday.

Insurance premiums will rise by 100 to 300 per cent for physicians depending on their medical or surgical specialty, one physician said.

An insurance specialist, who asked not to be identified, said:

"There's no question that doctor bills will be going up."

Dr. Jean F. Crum, president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, termed the premium hike "unexpectedly large."

The county medical association has called a special meeting of its council to discuss the matter.

Dr. M. M. Haskell, one of two councilors representing the Long Beach Medical Association, said all doctors are going to pay an increased premium rate.

These increases will range from 100 to 300 per cent, he said.

"I have heard that some surgeons are paying as high as $1,000 a month in insurance," he asserted.

"No one dreamed the increases would be this much," he added.

Said Dr. Haskell: "It is not reasonable to expect a doctor to absorb this increase in costs without some increase in his fee."

How much the fee increase will be and how soon it will come will depend on the individual physician's fiscal problems, doctors say.

Another councilor, Dr. Edward J. Wiater, said, "there's no question that it will affect fees" if increases go as high as 300 per cent.

If increases are only 100 per cent or so, some physicians may be willing to hold the line, Dr. Wiater predicted.

Dr. Jerome A. Cope, president of the Long Beach Medical Association, said some doctors are paying "five-figure premiums."

"These costs have to be treated as overhead," he said. "Ultimately adjustments will be made, and it is the patient who in the end will suffer."

An insurance specialist said the sudden increases in premiums are a result of a dramatic increase in number of claims as well as the increased size of judgments and settlements.

"Drastic action is necessary to cope with this situation," the insurance authority said.

The highest premiums will be those for neurosurgeons, orthopedic surgeons, anesthesiologists, plastic surgeons and ear-nose-throat surgeons who also do plastic surgery, it was learned.

Also rated high risks are general surgeons, obstetri-clans and gynecologists and surgeons in various other specialties.

"We averaged a collection of $605 last year per doctor," the insurance spokesman said, "and this year we'll try to collect an average of $1,100 per doctor," at Dr. Crum, the county medical association president, said that "it's a reasonable assumption that doctors' fees will now go up."

Dr. Crum said the liability insurance problem has become so acute in California some high-risk specialists, such as neurosurgeons and orthopedic surgeons, are hesitating to perform certain surgical procedures.

Thus patients are sometimes being denied the full potential of medical practice, Dr. Crum said. The explanation is that some doctors simply do not wish to increase their vulnerability to lawsuits, Dr. Crum said.

Dr. Crum said he did not think most physicians would act "immediately and vindictively" toward patients because of the premium hike.

"But over the course of months it will become clear to physicians that they will have to do something to meet increased costs," Dr. Crum said.

Cook Gets Year in Robbery of 85-Year-Old Man

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

A former Long Beach cook was sentenced to one year in county jail Friday for robbing an 85-year-old man of $5,500 and abandoning him on a lonely Cerritos road.

Superior Court Judge

Max Wisot ordered the cook, Peter Taraviras, to pay back the money within six months after finishing his jail term.

Taraviras was found guilty in the April 7, 1967 robbery of Mark Sleeter, 2750 Atlantic Ave.

The robbery occurred when Taraviras befriended Sleeter at a bus station, invited him to his apartment for a brief visit, then took his money on the way back.

Sleeter, who had withdrawn the cash from the bank that afternoon for a trip to San Francisco, was found dazed and incoherent near Artesia Boulevard and Marquardt Avenue late the same night.

Taraviras took the money and drove to Vancouver to visit relatives, then flew to Greece, his homeland. Police finally caught up with him in New York in February when he was arrested on a Long Beach warrant.

He pleaded guilty to the robbery charge Aug. 16 and promised, through Albert C. S. Ramsey, his attorney, to make restitution.

Denies Tot at Airport Neglected

Petite Patsy Fischer, 20, whose daughter was found wandering at the Orange County Airport, with a note asking that she be sent to her grandmother in Michigan, pleaded not guilty Friday to child neglect.

Her trial was set for Oct. 23.

While her mother appeared in Santa Ana Municipal Court, little Corinne Ann Reiter, 7, was being reunited with her father, Michael Reiter, 31, in Minneapolis.

The Orange County Probation Department had the child flown to Reiter, who was waiting for Corinne's arrival.

TOBACCO TAX FUNDS SPLIT

Five Southland cities split $102,602 from the state cigarette tax for August, Assemblyman Carley V. Porter said Friday.

Under the old formula, funds were allocated on a ratio of sales tax paid by each community, but the new formula distributes 50 per cent of the money on this basis and the balance on population.

Porter said this means bigger cuts for cities in the 38th Assembly District.

The August apportionment totaled $17,128 for Bellflower; $24,810 for Compton; $36,428 for Downey; $13,476 for Lynwood, and $10,759 for Paramount.

Wreckers Tame Cyclone's Terror

Long Beach's famous thrill ride, the 38-year-old Cyclone Racer, came tumbling down on its Nui Pike site Friday as workmen of the National House Wrecking & Salvage Co. continued the task of eradicating a seaside landmark that had chilled the hearts of millions in its up-and-down career. There won't even be a tombstone—except the "R.I.P." tributes of a daredevil breed that braved the rails of the world's "highest, fastest, steepest" roller-coaster.

REJECT DEMANDS OF MOTHERS

See End to School Bus Row

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

"We don't expect any more trouble, but we'll just have to wait until Monday to be sure," Wilson Bell, superintendent of the Paramount Unified School District, said late Friday.

For the past two days, a group of mothers have halted a school bus in front of an apartment complex at 5447 Paramount Blvd., trying to get the driver to pick up 32 children and deliver them to Lakewood Elementary School.

The mothers succeeded Thursday, but Friday the driver refused to open the doors at the unscheduled stop after only four children boarded at the regular stop 600 feet away across a private road and a side street.

"I don't really believe this group has a just cause for complaint," Bell said. "The bus stops at the most central location for children in the area. It's just two short blocks from the apartments and not across any major streets."

"I wish I could provide as well for the safety of all the children in the school district," the superintendent said.

He explained some children walk as much as two miles with no bus service, "and the first sidewalks they reach are on school property."

When the driver refused to haul the children Friday, they were loaded into four cars and transported to school by irate mothers.

A total of 82 children live in the apartment building, but scheduling problems prevent making an extra stop in front of the building to pick them up, Bell said.

The district has only five buses which make regularly scheduled rounds, Bell said.

"We have been assured by the Lakewood Sheriff's Station that it would be no problem to issue citations if the mothers continue to impede the bus's progress," Bell said.

Income Up at Orange Co. Airport

A new Orange County airport could someday be financed with profits from the present airport, a county official said Friday.

Dennis Carpenter, chairman of the county airport commission, said the existing facility is showing more income every month and may soon begin to turn a profit.

Supervisors currently are studying a report recommending a new regional airport be built, sharply curtailing operations at the present airport to meet a rising of complaints of noise and jet-fuel fallout.

Robert J. Bresnahan, county director of aviation, said airport income "has a good chance of passing the $1-million mark this year." Last year the airport earned more than $468,500, but since then supervisors have applied higher fees for use of the field, fuel sales and terminal space.

L.B. Civil Defense Chief Warns U.S. Courting Disaster

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

"Many millions" of Americans will "needlessly perish" if nuclear war comes because the U.S. defense program is "completely out of balance with reality," Long Beach's Civil Defense chief asserted Friday.

Evar P. Peterson, coordinator of disaster services, called the national defense program "a half-way system that continues to spend many billions of dollars for military defense, and largely ignores sound Civil Defense measures."

Peterson told a conference of key Southern California Civil Defense officials they must "find a way to awaken the conscience of the leadership of our country so a Civil Defense program will finally be accorded a priority consistent with a truly balanced defense posture."

"THE CIVIL DEFENSE program, although vital to our nation's survival in the event of nuclear attack, has not been allowed to fully develop its life-saving potential," Peterson said.

"The time has come when this country must face the issue of whether it is wise to continue to have a defense posture completely out of balance with reality," he said.

"We know what to do, and much about how to do it," Peterson told the one-day conference in the Edgewater Inn. "We know that many lives will be saved because of what has already been achieved — and we rightfully can take pride in these accomplishments."

"BUT WE ALSO know that a great deal remains to be done," he emphasized.

Another speaker, Dr. James E. Roberts of the Professional Advisory Services Center at San Jose State College, reported that 69 per cent of California's residents do not have fallout shelter space which meets Civil Defense standards.

At little extra cost, Dr. Roberts said, additional fallout protection can be included in new buildings by design "slanting" techniques.

"Slanting," he explained, is a technique of adding to fallout protection without materially changing the structure's appearance, utility or cost.

A nationwide program to encourage such procedures is under way in about 30 states as a result of the success last year of a seven-state pilot program, Dr. Roberts said.

THE PROGRAM, known as the Direct Mail Shelter Development System because it is based on mailed reports of proposed new construction, is aimed primarily at school projects valued at $100,000 or more, non-school projects of $200,000 or more and without basements, and non-school projects of $10,000 or more which have basements.

2 Scalding Victims in Hospital

Two employees of Texaco's Wilmington refinery remained hospitalized late Friday with severe burns suffered when they were scalded by hot water from a coke-producing unit.

Three others were treated and released.

William B. Sinclair, 60, of 5525 E. Pacific Coast Highway, and Juran L. Roland, 57, of 12446 S. George St., Garden Grove, were listed in satisfactory condition at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

Sinclair suffered second-degree burns on his neck and chest and second and third-degree burns on his legs. Roland received second-degree burns on his chest and legs.

The other injured men were Paul Grother, 24, of 1325 Orange Ave., Arthur L. Blanchard, 23, of 15631 Butler Ave., and Myrandt Godfrey Jr., 33, of Inglewood.

AIMS JIBE AT CITY COUNCIL

'Free Press' Editor Talks to 400 at State College

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

The free speech area at California State College, Long Beach, got its first workout of the new school year Friday with Art Kunkin, editor of the "underground" Los Angeles Free Press, talking about "censorship."

Almost 400 persons, a crowd larger than most attending last year's political open forums in the area, sprawled on the grass to hear Kunkin's version of Sunday's police routing of an Elysian Park "love-in."

In a restrained speech, received mostly in silence, Kunkin jibed briefly at the Long Beach City Council.

"Our circulation went up 5,000 since their attempt last spring to limit our distribution," he said.

Vice Mayor Robert Crow at that time had dramatized his opposition to "the most vile, vulgar, coarse communications I have ever viewed" by threatening to dump copies into the ocean. But his request that Free Press vending racks be removed from local street corners later was held legally indefensible.

Crow was not mentioned by name in the editor's passing dig.

Kunkin, 40, termed Sunday's breakup by lawmen of the hippie-style love-in as "censorship." He linked the action with police and sheriff's department refusals to issue press credentials to his staff.

The weekly paper currently is taking legal action to force law enforcement agencies to give regular press identification to Free Press representatives.

Police action in breaking up the Los Angeles park love-in, sponsored by his paper, "is censorship of a type in which police can go to the public and say, 'This isn't a legitimate newspaper!'" to justify their position, Kunkin said.

He "most likely" will file a false-arrest suit, he said, "after being acquitted in court."

The editor was booked on suspicion of inciting a riot and resisting arrest.

The excellent long-term outlook for the leisure-time

The excellent long-term outlook for the leisure-time industry has been reflected in the increasing relative strength of most leading stocks in the various segments of the industry — movies, photography, sports, toys, books, travel. On a shorter term basis, toys and sports appear the most dynamic in terms of trading potential. Our selection in the toy group — Milton Bradley (MB-40)

Leisure time and sports are almost synonymous. The rapid growth of just one area, water sports, has drawn increasing investor interest. This has been most clearly illustrated by the generally strong performance of stocks such as Brunswick (BC-18) and Outboard Marine (OM-36). Shorter term — a volume advance by Outboard Marine above the 37 level would give a technical basis for a move to the 40-42 level. A volume rally by Brunswick above the 19½ level will give a technical basis for a move to the 22-23 area.

OVER-ALL MARKET outlook, bullish. Having penetrated 920-930 the market has eliminated a significant barrier on the upside. The recent strength has resulted in an upside breakout of a broad stalemate in effect since the April high. It has also resulted in a decisive rally through a down trendline. Now, on a technical basis, a case can be made for a definite uptrend pattern with a near to medium term objective to the 980-1000 level.

Recent stability, despite the sharp advance by the market, could further delay any real pullback. While the generally overbought condition should result in a more sluggish over-all trading picture, the shorter term trend will remain positive until some downside momentum indicates more than a minor dip.

Increasing confidence in the institutional area has indicated a broadening support for the current upturn in the market. The steady improvement should tend to limit any near term pullback, and should provide more impetus to subsequent rallies. Among the stocks under significant accumulation last week which are regraded favorably on a technical basis are: Brunswick, GAF Corp., Martin-Marietta, International Paper. Among the stocks under significant distribution which are regraded unfavorably on a technical basis are: Boeing, General Dynamics, Reynolds Metals, ACF Industries.

SHORT INTEREST dipped slightly in the last reported period. While a decline is ordinarily considered unfavorable, it was a very small drop and did not represent a significant downturn. Also, the total short interest as a ratio to total volume for the period remains bullish.

Normally the stocks with the highest short interest ratio in relation to the total capitalization make good trading vehicles. Among the stocks that not only have relatively high short interest ratios, but are also at or near levels that would provide good support are: Fedders, Republic, Teledyne. Stocks with the highest short interest ratios that are somewhat vulnerable to a general market pullback but should provide the best buys on dips are: Burroughs, Fairchild Camera, Itek, Mattel.

TOUR LONG BEACH 'MARKET'

I.P.T. Hosts Ad Executives

Sixteen advertising and marketing executives from Los Angeles were hosted by the Independent Press-Telegram this week on a tour of the Long Beach "market."

In the touring group, which saw such current and upcoming attractions of the International City as the Queen Mary, the harbor area and downtown district, were:

Joe Ayres, Campbell Sales Co.; Phil Calentino, Hunt-Wesson Foods; Bill Dallas, Peugeot Western Distributors; Pat Fraley, Kitchens of Sara Lee; Bruce Gilbert of Needham, Harper & Steers; Al Harrison, Campbell Sales Co.; Dick Haysel, Southern California Edison Co.; Ray Kohler, Trans World Airlines.

Also, Nick Lucas, Four Roses Distillers; Joe McCord, Volkswagen Pacific; Frank Moore, Philco-Ford; Dick O'Hearn, Gillette Blade Division; Andy Rutledge, R. J. Reynolds Food Products; Berne Vaaler, Pictsweet Foods; Don Walsh, Renault West; and Ivan Warshawsky, Carson-Roberts Inc.

ELIZABETH C. LOOMIS

Elizabeth Loomis to Be Buried

Services will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, for Elizabeth Cook Loomis, deputy clerk for the city of Long Beach for 22 years, and well-known church organist.

Mrs. Loomis, of 1 St. Joseph Ave., had been an invalid since collapsing between services last March at the church. She died Wednesday at age 63.

A NATIVE of Bluffton, Ind., she came to Long Beach 40 years ago. She was employed in the Municipal Court Division. She had been organist at Grace Methodist and Trinity Lutheran churches in addition to Our Saviour's, played at many weddings, and occasionally was called upon to help by Mottell's Mortuary.

Surviving are a son, James, of Malibu Lake; a daughter, Jo Anne Giuliano of Calabasas; an aunt, Alice, Bethea of Long Beach, and four grandchildren.

Mottell's is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Child Narcotic Use, Pushing Topic of Talk

"Is Your Child on Drugs?" will be discussed by Dr. Paul H. Lorian of Palos Verdes Estates in a talk before the Harbor General Hospital Auxiliary at 1 p.m. Monday in the hospital auditorium, 1000 W. Carson St.

Dr. Lorian will discuss the age groups most frequently involved as victims of "pushers," why the youngsters do not disclose their sources of supply, and how parents can establish closer communication with their children when there are indications that drugs are being supplied to the youngsters.

Dr. Lorian is a professor of anesthesiology at UCLA and chief of the anesthesiology department of the hospital.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

The attractively symmetrical beauty of a 9-foot-tall by nearly same size spread Colorado Blue Spruce growing in a front lawn is the cynosure of all eyes that ever glance in that direction. The several various kinds of shrubs when decorated with Christmas lights.

It is a slow grower, therefore will be many years before it reaches a tall, height to where it would seem to overpower the one-story neat looking home nearby.

Two other conifers suit in a container for patio landscape beauty, as well as for seasonal decoration. Nonetheless there are several sensible and practical reasons why you should purchase such a plant now, if you have been planning to buy one later on.

First, the plants have become acclimated to your locality. Those balled plants from the North or Northwest, or possibly northern part of our state, were properly planted into containers by your local nurseryman. The roots have become well established and the trees are thriving. You are assured the tree you select will continue to grow, assuming you give the tree normal care.

Visit your nursery and look up such a tree. Select a good shapely one and you'll wisely be investing in a Christmas tree for permanent beauty for years to come.

Bulbs, too, are a wise investment and provide beauty, though temporary.

Ask More Lighting in Willowbrook Area

Willowbrook Lighting District residents have petitioned for more street illumination near Alameda Street and Santa Ana Boulevard.

J.L. Morhar, county road commissioner, urged County Supervisors to allocate funds for the project. In addition to the need for replacement lights, some new poles are required, according to the petitioners.

DO IT NOW

TAKE CUTTINGS from desirable fuchsias you want to propagate for more plants.

CONTINUE fertilizing chymbidiums. Set the pots off the soil to allow pot bottoms to dry between waterings.

FEED MUMS that haven't set flower buds, also those whose buds haven't started to show color. Insecticide spray if pests such as aphids, thrips, or spider mites are on the plants.

FLORIBUNDA faded head of flowers should be cut off just above a leaf, or a leafless bud. This encourages another long branch to grow out that develops a large head of lovely flowers.

and colorful flowers nearby are secondary.

The tree tolerates dry atmosphere and, so far, smog. We can imagine what a sight it must be able for Christmas decoration are fir and pinon pine.

It may seem a bit out of season to talk about growing a Christmas tree drainage hole of the pot to see if it is clogged up. If so, take out plant, provide proper drainage and replant. Possibly the plant organic medium may have been too firmly packed, hence water doesn't easily seep through and drain out. After checking and correcting whichever of the two problems may have existed and plants reported, then two weeks later apply one of the liquid "irons" or a liquid soil conditioner. (Please let me know what condition you find ament the sick pot plant.) Pots should not rest on soil or on flat patio floor. Instead they should be set up to allow quick drainage; the pot bottom dries easily.

Queries, Answers

Q. (1) What can be done to get rid of Johnson grass? I have dug up the ground, taken out all the roots I could find several times. (2) How does one get rid of water sprouts around the bottom of an apple tree? W. N. Jester.

A. (1) Johnson grass truly is a noxious weed. About the only drastic control is to fumigate the soil, but be sure you stay three feet away from any trees or plant drip-lines. Check with your local nurseryman about a liquid soil fumigant that kills weeds and temporarily sterilizes the soil. It is not to be used on any kind of lawn because it kills out the lawn. Be sure you understand exactly how to use the material and use it as directed. (2) I presume "water sprouts" means suckers around the base of the apple tree. If so, dig soil away from them and pull them off as you would undesirable suckers from below the bud union of a rose bush. If you cannot tear them off, cut them close to where they grow out. Fill soil back in, firm, then water well.

Q. Our around 12-year-old epiphyllum cactus back of our garage is becoming so large, soon there won't be room to get into the space there. Yearly around May 1, it blooms profusely for about six weeks. This year it flowered heaviest yet. There were from 10 to 15 large, beautiful, red-orange blossoms nearly every day and sometimes more, before it finished blooming. How can we cut it back without doing any harm and when is the best time to do it? Mrs. E. Ross.

Ernie Beahn, an epiphyllum hobbyist who has introduced some beautiful new varieties, recommends pruning it right now. Pruning means to cut out the oldest leaves, back to the base of the plant. Espallier the newer remaining leaves to a lattice frame, or tie the leaves to stakes.

Q. Is there such a thing as a "sick pot?" My gardening mainly is limited to pot culture. After using various kinds of containers, I have found common red clay pots are the best. My 25 mostly three-year-old azaleas are all thriving beautifully, but one. It has developed the "burned" type of foliage indicative of salt-loaded soil. This azalea was planted in a used pot. It is possible the pot is to blame? I plan to repot the azalea and discard the pot, but would like to hear your views on bad pots. Josephine Schwartz.

ly. Planted now, they may be left in the ground for several years before they need to be dug up, separated and replanted in season.

The bulbs we refer to are fragrant grape hyacinths, whose purple flowers and fragrance nostalgically reminds one who lived in the East and smelled the ripening grapes after a refreshing cooling shower. The miniature blossoms are delightful when cut and placed in a small vase.

Sweet-scented freesias also may be left in the ground if need be after they have finished blooming. Showy sparaxis, though not fragrant, should be planted in ground and left for several years, or can be dug up and stored for next year's planting. Ixias are taller growers and furnish wider range of colorful blooms. Clusters of small-flowered, intensely fragrant narcisssus usually are planted about now, also grow in water indoors in a bulb dish.

We believe that daffodils, Dutch hyacinths, tulips and Dutch iris should be planted about mid-October, because the ground is colder, the bulbs are slower in developing their roots, hence produce better flowers in the spring. Tulip bulbs should be stored for several weeks in the refrigerator where milk and butter are kept before they are planted.

Sunday School Death Notices Exaggerated

By LES RODNEY

Is the American Sunday School really dying? But definitely not, says Rev. Wayne E. Buchanan Jr., executive director of the National Sunday School Assn.

At least, he amends, not so far as conservative evangelical Protestants are concerned.

(Though like all catch phrases it is not too exact, and there are some overlappings in today's real life, conservative evangelicals are generally thought of as those Protestants who stress absolute fidelity to the Bible as the Word of God, and regard individual conversion as the crucial touchstone of a Christian. They are aloof from the Ecumenical Council movement, which they say places too much emphasis on "social action" witnessing, and departs from gospel. Evangelicals are estimated to number some 25 million of the nation's 70 million churchgoing Protestants.)

Rev. Buchanan, whose headquarters are in Wheaton, Ill., is in the Southland for the evangelical Sunday School organization's 23rd annual convention, which concludes today in Anaheim Center.

"THE THEME of our convention speaks to this very point of the health of the Sunday Schools," he said in an interview. "It is 'Go With Authority.' We're saying to the lay teachers who have been bombarded these past few years with stories that the Sunday School is dying, that this isn't true, and that what these teachers are doing is more worthwhile and appreciated than ever in these days."

The interview with Rev. Carl R. Ambrase of the Church of Religious Science International, announced for today, will appear in next Saturday's paper.

Pessimistic stories, he said, have been guilty of "generalizing from a bad situation for some."

"They put all Sunday Schools together. They never define whose they are talking about. We in the evangelical movement see the churches showing a consistent increase."

Not that there is any complacency, he hastily adds. "Or we wouldn't have 206 workshops going on in Anaheim on methods of improving Christian education!" Workshop leaders, he says, have been selected on the basis of their experience, not theory.

Rev. Buchanan readily concedes that evangelicals may have been laggard in the past in adapting their unchanging message to the modern, changing world.

"We accept that we have badly needed looking at ourselves," he said. "And we recognize that not every Sunday School is all it should be."

"If we were somewhat slow in the past to incorporate many of the techniques that would help our teaching, I think it was because we were a bit fearful that the message, the Word of God, would be somehow threatened. Conservative theology got hooked up with conservative methodology."

This hangup, he says, is a thing of the past. "We are outliving this. A five minute glance at the exhibitions at this convention will show that."

AS FAR AS Southern California is concerned, he adds, "my observation is that evangelical churches are where the real action is."

Another important area where evangelicals have stepped out boldly, Rev. Buchanan believes, is in trying to get a true picture of America's much discussed teen-agers.

The Sunday School Association recently concluded a five-year study, in which it utilized 3,000 evangelical "teams" to put no less than 336 questions to teens.

"They touched on every conceivable thing," Rev. Buchanan related. "Attitude toward parents, toward the church, their values, their aspirations, race relations, peace and war, their own personal lives, the things they actually do."

And the answers? "They have not upset us at all. Frankly, we are encouraged in many areas. There is a high degree of respect for their parents, of trust in the institutional church, and belief in the Word of God."

"Of course, the youngsters put their fingers on some sore spots, Sunday School teachers, pastors, parents, they say, need to know more about the world in which we live. They need to be more aware of everything, including moral issues."

The Christian education executive, with a smile, adds that "one thing about this study that I think is outstanding, is that we were brave enough to find out, to ask the youngsters themselves rather than speculate. The whole survey, by the way, was under the closest scrutiny of educators."

AS FOR the "sore spots" pointed out by the teens:

"I think they are right. I'd like to see our Sunday School leaders and teachers, who incidentally are all lay volunteers, become more creative and find answers that best fit the individual and exact situations today. When teachers know the problems of young people—drugs, leisure time, the draft, sexual pressures—then they can relate the Word of God specifically to these life problems."

Rev. Buchanan was asked whether the traditional evangelical antipathy toward involvement in exactly such secular problems might weigh against moving in this direction.

REV. BUCHANAN Hopeful on Teens

He responded "that first of all, it is an unfair assumption that evangelicals are not concerned with the major issues of the day."

"And 'today,' he says, 'we have a growing concern for these issues. But always pointing out that the number one cause of our problems can be found in man's relation to God.'"

If ecumenical leaders maintain that their concerns flow from the gospels, Rev. Buchanan retorts that "it comes out like plain social work."

Evangelicals, he insists, "are tremendously concerned about the issues of today."

These include alienated young people who oppose the war, black militants, hippies. "We are honest enough to say we are frustrated by many of these problems. We don't think there are easy answers. We are discussing these things and seeking answers, as the survey shows, and in smaller groups. We are wise enough to admit we do not have all the answers."

He sees this as a sign of growing maturity for the movement.

HIS ASSOCIATION, he says, has taken no position on the occasionally still controversial question of prayers in public schools. Released time programs, he feels, serve a fine purpose "where the instruction is of the right kind."

He prefers to place the

Service Y's Lively Supper Forums Open Friday

The popular annual Friday Night Supper Forums at the Armed Services YMCA, which have demolished the stereotype that young men in the service of their country aren't interested in intelligent dialogue, get under way Oct. 4 and continue through the month.

They will continue the format of a 6:30 p.m. home-cooked meal served by hostesses of the Girls Service Organization, followed by informal candid sessions using "discussion stimulants," popular movies and dramas.

All servicemen are welcome to attend, explains program director Clovis L. Putney, and interested young adult church groups and individuals may make reservations.

Moderator-discussion leader for the series will be Ralph E. Michels, of St. John's Community Presbyterian Church, one of the area's younger pastors, who is credited with creative innovations in his church. He will be assisted by Tom G. Stevens, associate minister of First Methodist.

The opening session, entitled "Boss Toad," will have delegates from "outside the establishment," says Putney, posing questions such as: Is the young adult of today militant, articulate, committed, radical, rebellious? What does love mean to the "love generation"?

Other evenings will center on "The Hang Up," with questions about why marriage, is this a "liberated" age, the pill, etc.; film excerpts from "A Patch of Blue" as a point of conversation, and "The Nitty Gritty Once and Future Now," using the impact of psycho-drama, provided by members of the Armed Services Sock & Buskin play group.

A Bell Peals in Lakewood

The resonant chimes of a powerful church bell may be heard summoning people to worship each Sunday morning in the vicinity of South Street and Lakewood Boulevard in Lakewood, but those looking for a bell tower and huge bell at Mount Olivet Lutheran Church won't find it.

Dedication ceremonies small metal hammer, producing exact bell tones almost inaudible to the human ear.

These tones are then amplified over one million times by means of specially designed electronic equipment, producing true bell tones which are termed superior to the tones of traditional cast bells of massive proportions. The instrument, said Pastor George S. Norman, can be tuned to exacting standards not possible with cast bells.

The bell was installed in memory of Mrs. Mary Larson, Mrs. Dottie Lawrence, and her granddaughter Donna Pryor, and Mrs. Ella Rissman.

CONFIDENT LIVING

On Pleasurizing Your Attitudes

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Suppose someone asked you a question put to me the other day. What would be your answer? He asked, "Tell me something. Are you happy?" Well, I'd not had a question like that thrown at me before; in fact, had not considered the matter. What would you say to that question?

As for me, sure I am happy. I get a terrific kick out of every day. And that is a fact, too. Oh, of course, I have problems and setbacks. Everything doesn't go the way I want it by a great day. And I have my share of unpleasant experiences, but on the whole life is interesting and exciting and full of satisfaction. Yes, I would say unequivocally that I'm happy in an uncherry, non-back-slapping way.

Excessive professional happiness leave me cold. They are happiness simulators if you ask me. Underneath all their showiness, the joy and serenity are pretty thin. That kind of so-called happiness isn't happiness at all, but rather a pretense form of joy motivated by a desire for the genuine article. Such persons are looking for happiness and pathetically pretending that they have it. And that just doesn't come off.

WELL, THEN, how do you find the happiness that you want? I once heard a man suggest that you can go at this problem experimentally. His idea was to base the secret of happiness upon the things you did that gave the deepest inner joy. He found, for example, that he enjoyed going out to a charming restaurant for a delicious dinner and a delightful evening with friends. But when he went out of his way to do something generous and kind, and unexpected for someone in deep trouble that he "felt so good inside that he could sing for joy." The reaction to the first experience he defined as pleasure and the reaction to the second as happiness. So to be happy, he concluded, do those things which give you the deepest, most exquisite feelings of joy.

Well, the method has merit in that it points up an old hackneyed truth but one which needs new currency, that it isn't what you do for yourself that really makes you happy, though it may give you justifiable pleasure, but what you do for the poor, the needy, the unfortunate. And it's all the more happiness producing when it's something you could get away without doing but still you do it because something in you tells you that you must.

William Lyon Phelps, creative thinker, writer, teacher, once said, "He is the happiest man who thinks the most interesting thoughts." There is a type of thinking, if, indeed, it may be called that, which exclusively has to do with what you eat or wear, how comfortable you are, what she said, what he did, etc., ad infinitum, a monotonized, humdrum series of thoughts that never branch out into fresh, exciting areas.

But a person who reads and studies and converses on current events in science, philosophy, politics, will in the process escape from dull self-centeredness. And his increased awareness of life in its infinite variety will tend to produce the excitement which is inherent in happiness.

But thinking the interesting thoughts which create happiness is a disciplinary process, which too few persons employ.

A man consulted me who complained that he had never been happy since he "became a success." When younger and looking forward to a business career I got a lot of fun out of life. But now I've got it made and the happiness I expected doesn't materialize. How come?

Offering the trite suggestion that things — cars, TV sets, country clubs — do not necessarily guarantee happiness, though why they should be depreciated I'll never know, I began exploring the things the man was thinking about. Status was one of them. He was advancing steadily but so were others and he felt threatened. He became sensitive about associates, their attitude toward him, what they said and how they said it. If anyone got a raise how come they passed him by? It got so that if anyone disagreed with an opinion he was put out about it and took the gripe to bed with him.

INDEED He lay awake nights endlessly going over slights and rebuffs, asking "Why me, who do they think they are?" and other equally effective sleep disturbers. Naturally he got up from bed disgruntled and hurried downtown to the competitive chip-on-the-shoulder rat race.

I recommended he employ thought therapy. For one thing, I suggested he turn his thoughts, when going to bed, upon the most pleasant thing that had happened during the day, and dwell on that. Such procedure would tend to pleasurize his attitudes. Next that he pray specifically and by name for each of his associates, with special emphasis on "the dirtiest skunks."

CHURCHES TACKLE KNOTTY PROBLEM OF REACHING APARTMENT DWELLERS

Mushrooming high-rise apartments in cities may present the greatest challenge ever faced by churches in the United States.

It is predicted, on the basis of mounting statistics, that by 1975 half of all Americans will be apartment-dwellers. Yet presently only 5 to 15 percent of such persons have church affiliations.

What complicates the problem for churches is that it is not easy to reach apartment-dwellers. For instance, residents of the better high-rise apartments are not "joiners." They not only insist upon privacy, but most of them don't even have anything to do with next-door neighbors.

Churches have not been asleep while this situation has been building up, it is reported in the October issue of Together magazine, a United Methodist publication. Associate Editor Martha Lane reports on many kinds of special ministries which have been tried, with varying successes and failures.

THERE ARE many types of apartments and apartment complexes, she finds — integrated and segregated; high-rise and low-rise; public and private; luxury, middle-income, and slum dwellings; some for senior citizens only, others for young, single adults, and still others for families. Complexes have up to 12,721 units.

Vast numbers of apartment residents "feel that the church has nothing to offer them," Miss Lane reports after interviewing scores of ministers and laymen who have been making special efforts to contact such people.

Among hurdles she lists, vast numbers of apartment tenants tend to look upon the church as a "proselyting, fund-raising body specializing in group meetings." Another finding is that Bible studies don't appeal to many individuals, because church and the Bible no longer are regarded as authorities. Furthermore, the church's image is "unclear to nonchurchmen because churchmen themselves are confused," she reports.

One of the major problems is that there are so many different kinds of groups, particularly among young adults — such as young married couples, divorcees, the affluent, sophisticated, professional persons, business men and women, hippies, swingers, students, homosexuals, Latin Americans, Negroes, and so on. Each type has its own peculiar problems, life style and attitudes.

A frustrating fact for churches is that high-rise tenants are not so friendly as are people in small towns. Another obstacle in dealing with them is the mobility — many people cannot be found at home much of the time, or tenants move from time to time.

People residing in luxury apartments insist upon enjoying freedom from responsibility in the geographic community, and they "don't take kindly to meddling churchmen," Miss Lane reports.

Among other experiences of congregations is that even though some apartment newcomers can be persuaded to attend worship, few of them become church members. Yet, Miss Lane emphasizes, the "church has concern for people and is interested in congested apartment communities."

SPECIALIZED ministries have been established in many cities across the country. Notable examples listed are in East Harlem and Staten Island, New York City; Cleveland, Washington, D.C., Milwaukee, Dallas, St. Paul, Chicago, Malden, Mass., and in California, Hayward, West Hollywood, Canoga Park and Watts.

Most encouraging results, she finds, have been in low-income housing complexes.

Programs offered under such apartment ministries include: tutoring, day nurseries, adult education, after-school activities, counseling, jazz, discussions, music lessons, art classes, drama groups, reading facilities, dances, crafts, sports, coffeehouses, appeals to vocational interests, interfaith visitations by laymen, free transportation to hospitals, stores and meetings, operating rummage shops — with special emphasis on community services and personal assistance.

Experience has brought out, Miss Lane writes, that apartment ministries require a clearly defined, realistic purpose; adequate preliminary study and planning; strong staffs, with adequate financing, trained laymen, and "team ministries" — with particular needs for specialized ministries for divorcees and the elderly.

It has been learned, Miss Lane continues, that ineffective efforts include door-to-door calling, advertising, handbills, mailings, posted invitations, phone calls and radio appeals.

Of major importance is the finding that ecumenical ventures are desirable — not only between Protestant denominations, but Protestants teaming with Roman Catholics, and also interfaith efforts by Christians and Jews.

An approach to influencing apartment tenants which is coming into growing favor is church ownership or operation of buildings.

Laubach Literacy Classes Offered

Starting Monday and continuing for six Mondays at Community Congregational Church, 411 Katella Ave., Los Alamitos, from 9 a.m. to noon, teacher training classes in the Laubach Literacy method will be given. The courses will also be offered Monday evenings from 7 to 10 at Long Beach Community Presbyterian Church, 6380 Orange Ave.

FROM THE PULPIT

Are you satisfied? The unrest displayed throughout the world is simply the outworking of discontent from within man's heart. Human efforts are unable to quell man's burning desire for satisfaction. Why? Man was not made to be satisfied here.

"I shall be satisfied when I awake with thy likeness." Complete satisfaction is to be found only when at rest with God. Even the Christians of our generation are not completely content. Nor should they be: They have a desire to depart and be with Christ, which is far better.

Only by placing your faith in Him can you ever expect to have the longing in your heart satisfied.

Come to Calvary, Calvary is for you.

HER INVESTIGATION

has brought out clearly, Miss Lane records, that "church people do not understand what the average man's conception of God is. Few fear Him, and few feel that they need Him, although they are not really against Him," she explains, adding, "He is just left unemployed."

BRIEFLY . . .*Of Uncritical Lovers and Unloving Critics

Taking off from the unlovely events at Chicago during the Democratic convention, and commenting on the state of things, Rev. Arthur F. Suetz of Lakewood First Presbyterian Church in a recent sermon said

"I think perhaps John Gardner (former Secy. of Health, Education & Welfare) put this tension best in an address to the graduating class of Cornell University this year. He imagined himself a 23rd century thinker. He discovered, he said, that the 20th century institutions were caught in a savage crossfire between uncritical lovers and unloving critics. On the one side, those who loved their institutions tended to smother them in an embrace of death, loving their rigidities more than their promise, and shielding them from life-giving criticism. On the other side, there arose a breed of critics without love, skilled in demolition but untutored in the arts by which human institutions are nurtured and strengthened and made to flourish. Between the two, the institutions perished."

Any loving critics in the house?

THE LUTHERAN Church in America has decided to raise starting salaries in the U.S. from $5,040 to $5,460 a year ($105 a week). A spokesman said that because of rising living costs, pastors on the $5,040 salary were "finding it increasingly difficult to make end meet."

THE SOUTHERN BAPTISTS' Christian Life Commission, in a communique to the three major television networks, urged them to recognize their moral responsibility for combatting "the increasingly violent spirit of our nation," and cut down on TV violence.

All three responded favorably, we have learned. CBS President Frank Stanton assured the 11 million member denomination that "we are systematically screening every non-news program for violence," and that this should show up this fall. He said some programs "have been withheld entirely, and others have been heavily edited."

A spokesman for NBC also reported "significant changes in programs and in proposed scripts for the season's programs," and added that NBC also is "rejecting new program ideas that might rely too heavily on violence."

I. Martin Pompadur, vice president of ABC, said he could not accept any allegation "made by some people that television per se, is responsible" for lawlessness and violence, but said program officials have been "directed to . . . give special attention to encouraging de-emphasis of acts of violence."

Dr. Foy Valentine, head of the Baptist group, urged church members to support the networks' good intentions by writing letters to their local stations "commending the good programs and pointing out their bad one." He said the country would welcome "any change in the current unbridled programming of violence."

This kind of effective moral pressure would certainly seem to be more in keeping with the nation's traditions and freedoms than broadside government censorship.

FORMER BISHOP James A. Pike, stormy petrel of the Episcopal Church, has accepted an invitation to become honorary pastor of Mount Hollywood Congregational Church, preaching there periodically, with his first appearance this Sunday. The pastor, Rev. J. Hugh Anwyll, says Pike will continue his association with the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara. The Mt. Hollywood church is affiliated with the United Church of Christ.

IF ANYONE'S eyes popped in amazement at the Lutheran World Federation statistics showing 677,000 Lutherans in the Soviet Union, a more detailed breakdown reveals that 350,000 of them are in the Latvian Lutheran Church, 300,000 in the Estonian Evangelical Lutheran Church, and the remaining 27,000—right, in the Lithuanian Lutheran Church. These three formerly independent Baltic states were annexed to the USSR in the early 1940s.

The figures show Lutherans in surprising numbers in other Communist countries of Europe. In addition to the millions in East Germany, there are 580,000 listed in Czechoslovakia, mostly in Slovakia; 430,000 in Hungary; 219,476 in Rumania, most under the formidable formal title of "Evangelical Church of the Augsburg Confession in the Socialist Republic of Rumania"; 100,000 in Poland; and 82,170 in Yugoslavia. There are 53,000 listed under Lutheran Church of China, on the mainland. They rate a salute, whoever they are.

And a little more on the light side, would you believe 21 Lutherans in Israel, listed under "Mission of the Finnish Missionary Society." When Lutherans compile statistics, they don't miss anyone!

"HARAMBEE"—African for "Let us all pull together" is the theme of the All Nations United Methodist Church Festival Friday evening and all day next, Saturday, Oct. 5 at the church, 1315 E. First St., downtown Los Angeles near Aliso Village. It is designed, say its sponsors, "to bring together people of the central city and suburban areas who differ not only in where they live but in race and economic levels. Scheduled are a festival of folk music, other entertainment, fashions, Queen contest, art and boutique, films and refreshments. No admission charged."

PRACTICAL Ecumenics: Rev. Dr. William J. Nottingham will serve as regional secretary for Latin America for the missionary arms of both the United Church of Christ and Disciples of Christ. He is a Disciples minister and his associate secretary for the enterprise, Rev. Oscar C. Nussman, is from the UCC. This step follows a successful venture by the two denominations in joining their administrative procedures for India and Nepal. Could this kind of non-grandiose ecumenical advice be the right way?

DOES' COMPULSORY celibacy lead to serious emotional disturbances or neurotic behavior? Dr. Eugene Kennedy, professor of psychology at Maryknoll College of Illinois put that question to 250 psychologists and psychiatrists who have had professional experience in dealing with celibate Catholic clergy and nuns.

He reports that 80 per cent of the respondents feel celibacy is "a significant source of conflict or stress" for those required to practice it. But 58 per cent felt that this stress is not incompatible with "a psychologically healthy condition of life." Like, who doesn't have conflict or stress?

Two thirds of the psychologists and psychiatrists felt that many problems and pitfalls of celibacy would be avoided if it were optional rather than compulsory. —L.R.

WILL REPORT ON INDIA MISSION

Rev. and Mrs. Hendrix A. Townsley, shown with their daughters Kay and Coleen, will be guests of First Methodist Church, Fifth and Pacific, Wednesday at 7 p.m., and will talk about 30 years of mission work in India. For the past 10 years Rev. Townsley has been district superintendent in Delhi, training 14 local pastors and successfully encouraging the congregations to support them. Previously he was in South India, where he directed a mission industry, was principal of a training institute and built a hospital. He was a leading member of the committee negotiating formation of the Church of North India, which would include 1,500,000 members, with the Methodists largest of the seven participants.

Yom Kippur Lay Workers Observed Wednesday

Yom Kippur, the most solemn holiday in the Jewish calendar, will be observed by Jews throughout the world during the 24-hour period beginning with sundown Wednesday.

Yom Kippur, on Day of Atonement, culminating the 10 "High Holy Days," is marked by fasting and prayers of repentance and self-evaluation. It is described in the Bible as "a day of atonement to make atonement for you before the Lord your God."

It is ushered in with the chanting of the Kol Nidre (all vows) prayer which asks for God's forgiveness for the failure of man to have kept his vows to God and to man.

The day is marked by repeated recitation of the prayer of confession "Avinu Malkenu" — "Our Father, Our King, we have sinned before Thee," and the proclamation that "penitence, prayer and charity avert the severe decree."

The final call to conscience is issued with the sounding of the Shofar (ram's horn) at the conclusion of the 24-hour period.

Long Beach temples will hold services Wednesday evening and all day Thursday. To accommodate larger than usual congregations, Temple Sinai services will be held at the Elks Club, and Temple Israel's congregation will worship at First Congregational Church.

Lay Workers Held Penalized on Tax Break

Thousands of unpaid lay people work full time for the churches, just as clergymen do, but they don't get the same tax breaks.

"It's obviously unfair," says Rev. Dean M. Kelley, an expert on church and state relations for the National Council of Churches. "It ought to be changed."

The situation financially penalizes many men and women, not ordained but with comparable theological or other training to that of clergymen and who work alongside them on staffs of individual churches and denominations across the country.

They widely resent the disparity. Some are resigning. And some church leaders are worried about it. Last spring's United Methodist governing convention declared: "We support abolition of all special privileges accorded to members of the clergy in American tax laws and regulations."

Kelley estimates that most denominational employees, and a large proportion of executives, are laymen. They include Christian educators; publication staff members; mission workers; secretaries; departmental personnel and directors, many of them specialists, with advanced degrees, but who are not ordained.

Ga-Ga Over a Mannequin? It Has Certain Fascination

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

"Journey to the Unknown" premiered Thursday night on Ch. 7, the first in an anthology series produced by Joan Harrison.

The story dealt with a young man who falls in love with a store mannequin. That's not so hard to understand. The guy's maybe a bit strange, but there's a certain fascination in the idea and you've got to admit it's more wholesome than, say, a guy falling in love with a sow — a very big stage hit in New York these days. But then, again, if everybody's a pig, but I wonder...

The young man in the TV story carries on extended conversations with the mannequin. That's not too far-fetched. Everybody talks to himself once in a while, and even talks to inanimate objects occasionally — usually in cuss words. But if you find the Inanimate object is talking back to you, you'd better pull yourself together.

STILL, there's a kind of fascination in the idea of falling in love with a mannequin, and there is some suspense in the sense that you may be interested in how the idea was carried out. In a very mundane fashion, I'd say.

The young man learns that the mannequin is about to be replaced and decides to steal it for his own. In the process he kills a store executive. In his series of flights, carrying the mannequin through streets, on buses and the countryside (some exciting shots here) he meets up with a couple of drunk, leather-jacketed, boot-wearing young hoods, who assume, naturally, from the way the young man talks about the mannequin that she is a real live girl. They have "designs" on the "lady" and in an effort to save her, or it, the young man is killed.

IT'S POSSIBLE, of course, to read something of significance into all this.

You could say that people are taken in by "mannequins" who are not real at all, and all this leads to its disaster. Maybe that's not significant enough, though.

You might try the reality vs. illusion theme, sprinkled a bit with the alienated young man who cannot communicate in society today and how there is nothing real he can hang on to.

You can, I'm not going to. I get the feeling this entire business was more a matter for psychiatric that literary study, and I'm not qualified to dabble in unknowns like psychiatry.

BUT MAYBE I'm a little more qualified when it comes to determining when a half-hour subject is stretched unreasonably into a 120-minute show.

"Ironside" went for two hours Thursday night and one of the ways they made ends meet was to replay a lot of scenes from earlier "Ironside" episodes as flashbacks. Another way was to have little subtitles going on.

As a matter of fact you could stretch "Ironside," or any of the other police case shows, out for the entire prime-time period by having the detective juggle a dozen cases or so. That's the procedure in any number of detective novels padded to book length. So there's hardly anything to boast about in a two-hour "Ironside" except that it takes two hours.

Incidentally, the operation to determine if "Ironside" would walk again indicated that he won't, if there was any question in your mind. They go that route now and they don't have an "Ironside" show.

HARBOR CHEVROLET

Folks, it's "SHOW TIME" and Harbor Chevrolet is a veritable beehive of activity with huge crowds admiring our 1969 model line-up.

Watching their expressions of awe, admiration and complete enchantment should be very gratifying—yet the tremendous buying response to our product has left me with mixed emotions.

You see, the Chevrolet line-up of "4 DIFFERENT KINDS FOR 6 DIFFERENT MINDS" finds me so choked up because of their breathtaking beauty—I JUST HATE TO SEE THEM GO!!!

On the other hand, however, it is to be remembered that nothing in the universe is worthwhile—unless you can share it so come down & pick YOURS out, at a price you ought to pay!

No Joy in Port—Rojas, Ramos Lose

Tough Texans Send 49ers Reeling, 35-7

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

It isn't often that Texas A&I's defensive unit is upstaged, as it was Friday night at Veterans Stadium. Unfortunately for Cal State Long Beach, it was the Javelina offense which made the Border Bandits only No. 2 for the evening.

STICKY FINGERS?
Cal State Long Beach end Billy Parks (84) has ball only by fingertips but it was enough for nine-yard gain on pass from Dave Merrill. Texas A&I player is defensive back Ed Scott (42).

Saijyo Takes Feather Title From San Pedran

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Staff Writer

It was a sorry Friday night for two Long Beach area boxers engaged in world title fights at the Coliseum. One lost his bid for the lightweight championship and the other blew his featherweight crown.

Mando Ramos, the Long Beach 19-year-old who promised his fans that he'd bag a world championship before he left teenage ranks, dropped a 15-round decision to the rugged lightweight kingpin from the Dominican Republic, Teo Cruz.

In another unanimous decision, San Pedro's Raul Rojas — defending his featherweight championship for the first time — was bounced out of the throne room by Japan's Sho Saijyo, a slender Oriental who had whipped Rojas last June in a non-title match.

The crowd of 23,211, which contributed to a gross gate of $181,216, had no arguments about either decision. The predominantly Latin throng left the park in silence, not in mutiny.

Ramos was outclassed completely in the first five rounds. His opponent, 10 years older, gave him a classic boxing experience, but the youngster rebounded in the sixth canto and started to make a fight of it.

Through the first 10 rounds, however, Ramos lost steadily on points to Cruz. On this writer's card, Teo boasted a 9-1 margin after the initial 10 heats.

Mando came on strong in the final five rounds and, surprisingly, seemed to gain strength as the affair progressed.

Referee Lee Grossman and judge Rudy Jordan scored the fight 7-6 for Cruz with judge Dick Young giving the 30-year-old a 9-6 bulge. This writer's card was 10-5 for the eventual winner.

The end seemed near for Mando as early as the first round. Bobbing and weaving, Cruz gave Mando no target and peppered him with jabs that resulted in a swelling of the Long Beacher's left eye.

Cruz forced Ramos continually into the ropes the next two heats and cul Mando's left eye in round three. The man from San to Domingo almost sent Mando back to his mother's restaurant in Long Beach in the next round when he slapped Ramos into the ropes and the teenage star literally was seeing stars.

One round later, Ramos was even in more trouble. His nose began to swell from the punishing right and left jabs of Teo. But in round six Mando began to assert himself. He came off the rope and slugged the foreigner toe-to-toe.

ciency was complemented by an A&I rushing game that netted 277 yards.

In fact, the only thing that kept the Javelinas from running nearly unchecked was 149 yards in penalties.

Whatever troubles the Javelinas had with offense in last week's 6-0 win over Trinity were quickly solved Friday.

Douglas faced his troops 74 yards in seven bang-bang plays for a TD with only 2:13 elapsed.

Scatback Guile Vela and a 17-yard Douglas pass to fullback Phelan Allee set up Phelan's 3-yard blast.

Long Beach took the ensuing kickoff and drove to the Texas 32 before the Bandits forced four successive incomplete passes to take over.

The Javelinas needed only six plays this time,

Douglas getting the last 52 on a toss to the wide-open Respondek. From then on, it was downhill for the Javelinas.

Douglas pushed the visitors' advantage to 21-0 early in the second period when Nix beat a 49er defender on a streak and made a diving catch of a 49-yard Douglas throw in the end zone.

Long Beach moved only 33 yards for its score. Todd Key recovering a bad pitchout to set things up.

Jerry Miller passed 14 and 10 yards to Ron Rice before nailing Billy Parks with an 11-yard scoring aerial. Bob Smeridi's placement made it 21-7.

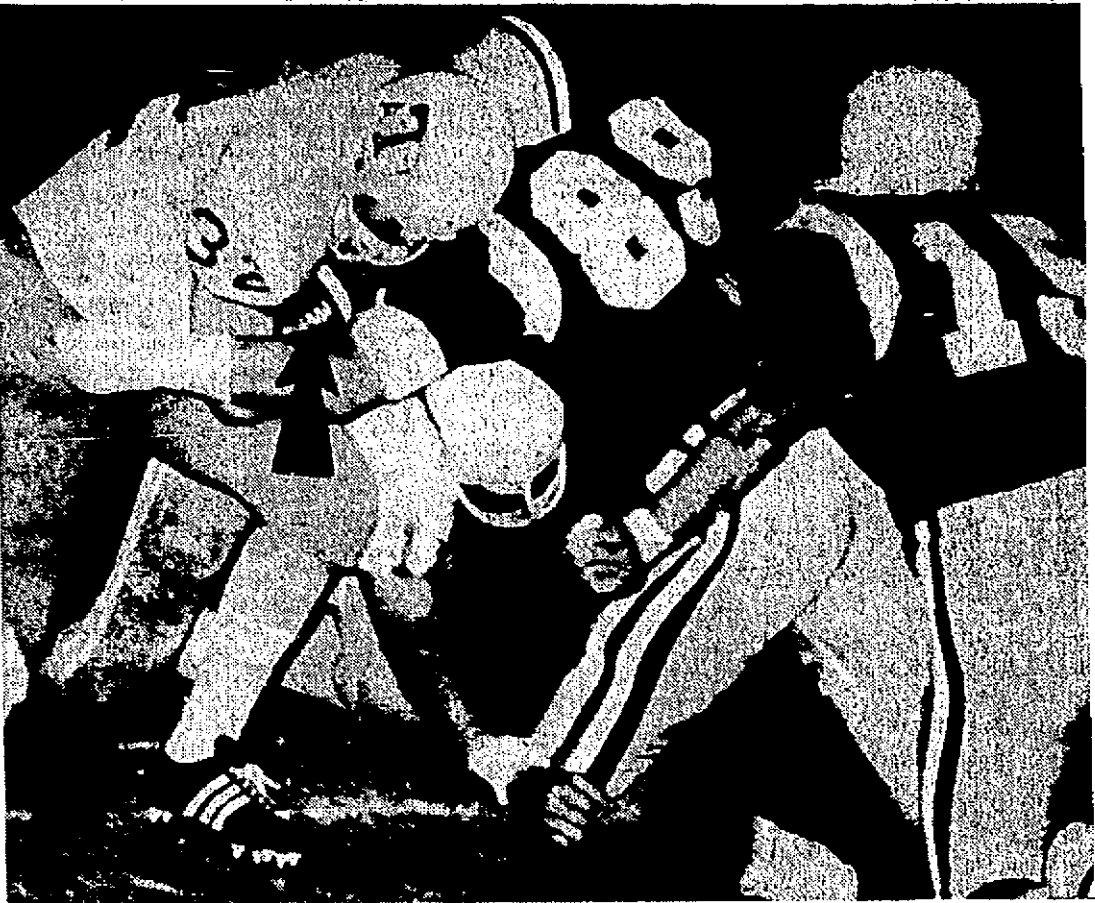

It was the fourth time this year Parks had scored and marked only the second time in their last 37 quarters that the Bandits had surrendered a passing TD.

The 49ers were able to complete 21 of 40 passes against the vaunted Bandit defense, but were never able to get the big play.

Parks caught 12 of the passes for 125 yards against an impressive assortment of Javelina defenses.

It marked the 10th time in his 12 games at Cal State that Parks had gained over 100 yards as a receiver. He now has 19 catches for 286 yards this season.

Vela was the game's leading rusher with 116 yards. Allee had 109. Rick Blanchard, who did not play the final 40 minutes, gained 62 yards for Cal State.

Serra Cashes Saints' Errors Into 12-0 Win

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

In a game of many mistakes, Serra High made the fewest and emerged with a hard-fought 12-0 win over St. Anthony on the Cavaliers' field in Gardena Friday night.

The Saints, now 0-2 this season, got inside the Serra 20 three times, but a goal line stand and four interceptions were too much to overcome.

Larry Lopez was responsible for both Serra touchdowns, throwing a 25-yard strike to tailback Tim Boyer late in the first quarter and sneaking across from the one with 9:22 left in the game.

It was a game that probably had both coaches — Tom Carroll of St. Anthony and Pete Lopez of Serra — shaking their heads many times. Six fumbles and five interceptions interrupted more drives than both coaches care to remember.

Serra's first score was the result of a six-play, 53-yard drive with runs of 13 yards by Steve Hlanda and 12 yards by Victor Tremblay setting up Lopez' strike to Boyer over the middle.

Until then Lopez had thrown the ball three times without completing a pass.

An interception by Craig Brown and a 55-yard return to the S.A. 34 set up the insurance TD.

Lopez then rose to the occasion again by hitting Leon Beauchman for 12 yards and Bob Revelle for 15 yards to put the ball on the four, from where he scored two plays later.

The Saints' biggest threat came near the end of the half after Lopez had fumbled away the ball on his own 12.

After two running plays and an incomplete pass put S.A. in a fourth-and-five situation on the seven, Saint quarterback Jerry Summerfelt hit split end Mike Schneeweis for six yards. He was dragged to the ground on the one — inches shy of the first down.

Summerfelt had a chance to bring S.A. back again after Serra had scored its second TD, and almost did.

A twisting 37-yard run by the sophomore quarterback after he had originally wanted to pass out the ball on the Cavalier 26.

Another pass to Schneeweis gained six yards, but on the next play Summerfelt fired a strike straight into the arms of Serra's Boyer, who brought it back out to the 30.

Serra turned right around and played give-away again as Art Tavizon intercepted a pass by Randy Hammon and ran 38 yards to the Serra 18.

Summerfelt then hit Schneeweis for 12 yards only to see Schneeweis fumble the ball.

St. Anthony's Craig Brown (15) pass from Lopez; kick failed.

S. Lopez (1 run); kick failed.

SULKING WILLS REJOINS PIRATES

Combined News Services

PITTSBURGH — Maury Wills said Friday he will join the Pittsburgh Pirates in Chicago Saturday at the request of Mayor Joseph M. Barr.

"The mayor thinks it will be the wisest decision," Wills said.

He said another factor that changed his decision not to leave the Pirates were the two teenagers he said he met Friday in Pittsburgh.

As he drove by, they yelled, "Maury, don't do it, stay."

General manager Joe L. Brown was not present at the news conference at the mayor's office. But a spokesman for the club said Wills had called Brown before the conference and asked him if he would allow him to join the Pirates Saturday.

The spokesman said Brown told him he could and then phoned Manager Larry Shepard and told him to expect Wills.

Wills said he may retire at the end of the season.

"I definitely will retire after the season, especially if I'm not protected from the draft," he said.

The veteran third baseman, who recently stole his 500th base and holds the modern major league record of 104 in a season, was missing Thursday night when the Pirates flew to Chicago.

Wills said he received a letter Thursday notifying him that he had been fined $150 for missing a physical examination appointment.

He said he went to the team bus and notified traveling secretary Bob Rice that he was not joining the club for the final trip.

"I think Maury acted more from emotion than from intellect," Brown said. "I think he is physically sound."

Brown said all Pirate players were notified by letter to take general physical and orthopedic examinations this week in accordance with a club policy laid down six years ago.

Wills said, "I really forgot about taking that physical and I should have called Brown to explain. But when he fined me, I felt I had enough."

The 35-year-old third baseman said he planned to remain in Pittsburgh at least half of the winter to operate a restaurant and continue working with Mayor Barr's youth program.

"After 18 years in baseball, coming up through the ranks and attaining some measure of success I feel it would be better to retire than be shuttled around," Wills said.

Wills was traded to Pittsburgh as the result of the Dodgers' postseason trip to Japan in 1966. He jumped the club in Japan, complaining that his damaged right knee was bothering him, and went back home for treatment.

Dodgers' Only Surplus Makes Osteen Uneasy

Dodger Cap, more so if he is a pitcher, particularly if he is Claude Osteen.

The Dodgers must deal and the best deals would appear to involve pitching surplus as bait.

No one realizes this more than Osteen, who completed his 1968 time card wouldn't be because of my performance. I really believe I pitched as well this year (12-18) as last (17-17)."

Osteen's name has been mentioned in trade talks with the Reds (for shortstop Leo Cardenas) and Pirates (for shortstop Gene Alley or first baseman Donn Clendenon).

year there were others that cost me wins and there were several that got me into trouble after two were out. Instead of getting the next man out I'd give up two or three runs. Only in that way, didn't have a successful year."

DIS AND DATA—Haller tied New without decision in a 5-2 Dodger victory over the Braves Friday night. Tom Haller drove in four runs and Jim Bréwer (8-3) was the winner after getting out of a bases-full, no-out situation in the eighth inning.

"It's an uneasy feeling to know your name is last season and ranks second to Bill Singer in Innings pitched this year.

"I was more consistent in 1965 and 1966," said Osteen. "I pitched a lot of low-run games because we had a good defense. Even this year, I didn't have but two or three games that were lost early. In

Lamar Lundy's Better Half Tells Other Side of Game

By SUZANNE GABRIEL
(Mrs. Ram Quarterback)

Lamar Lundy has had some great, aggressive games, particularly in the first two league matches this season against the St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh.

I talked with his wife, Ella, about the games and other aspects of their life in football.

Q: Ella, Lamar had one of his very best games in St. Louis. How was his disposition before that game?

A: Complete optimism! He felt the pre-season had not been a true picture of what the Rams could do. With Deacon (Jones) reporting late, Roger (Brown) coming to camp overweight and the time he lost in practice himself, Lamar felt the front four had not played together long enough. Certainly the timing was off. But all week he felt they could put it together for the first game.

Q: Away from football for a second, what does Lamar do in the off-season?

A: His title is sales representative with an airline, but for the last couple of years he has been in the public relations end of it, especially promoting firms to use the airlines.

Q: How about after football?

A: Well, it will probably be with the same company, traveling from city to city and state to state, visiting colleges, especially the athletic departments. His purpose will be trying to get them to do their traveling with his airline.

Q: I know you and the Covans are good friends. How do the fellows spend their spare time?

A: Pool! Charlie has a pool table and they play every afternoon. Lamar also likes to play cards, like bridge. He also loves dominoes. He, Charlie, Deacon (Jones) and Clancy (Williams) play a lot in camp.

Q: As a football fan and close to football as you are, how do you feel about the current season?

A: It is going to be a rough, tough season and the team that takes it all will be good and be lucky. I don't count anyone out, particularly the Bears and 49ers.

A new coach at Green Bay is not going to make a difference either. The winning team will not win all its games but will be the one which makes the best of the breaks. It will be down to the wire.

Q: If you had the chance to write one article for the public to read, what would you most like to write about?

A: That's an easy one. Everyone thinks a football player leads such a jolly life. It is exciting, but there are some disadvantages. It's not all limelight and roses and Hollywood.

They earn their pay. Some people think they practice a little and play on Sunday. They work six days a week, one day off instead of two, practice in the hot sun, plus the bruises and pains — and for some, worse. Really, you have to love this game to play it.

I think that about sums up what professional football is all about: you HAVE to love the game to play it.

Damascus in Repeat Bid as Top Horse

Associated Press

Buckpasser is retired from racing and Dr. Fager will not start, but today's renewal of the Woodward Stakes will be just as important to Damascus as last year's running.

A defeat for Damascus on the heels of his upset by No-doubt in the Michigan Mile and One-Eighth would severely damage his chances of repeating as Horse-of-the-Year.

Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft's millionaire 4-year-old colt beat Buckpasser, with Dr. Fager third, en route to best-horse honors last year.

Six or seven are expected to oppose Damascus. They include Grace Born, Spoon Bait, Pairo, Mr. Right, Fort Drum and Advocate.

THE LOS ANGELES County Fair racing season, most successful in history, concludes in traditional style with the 21st running of the $25,000-added Pomona Handicap.

The mile and one-eighth classic attracted a quality lineup of eight well-regarded stakes campaigners, with formidable Deck Hand the starting high-weight under 119 pounds.

Don Pierce, who clinched his second straight county fair riding assat Thursday, has the call on Deck Hand.

Gene Goff's No-doubt will make his first start since upsetting Damascus when he goes in the 1 1/16-mile, $50,000 Hawthorne Diamond Jubilee Stakes for 3-year-olds at Hawthorne.

Other national features include the seven-furlong, $25,000-added Atlantic City Handicap at Atlantic City; the six-furlong, $15,000-added Peninsula Handicap at Bay Meadows and the $7,500 Cranston Handicap over a mile and 70 yards at Lincoln Downs.

A field of eight is likely for the Atlantic City Handicap, with Harold H. Polk's Jim J., high-weighted at 126 pounds, the favorite.

FANFARE Kelly Shows His Kings How to Skate

BARRIE, Ont. (Special)

Who's the fastest King of all? Eddie (The Jet) Joyal, perhaps, or the fleet Bill (Cowboy) Flett? Nope.

It's coach Red Kelly, who won the club's speed skating trials by more than a full second.

Kelly, 39, whizzed around the rink and past the red faces of his players in 12.9 seconds. The next fastest time was recorded by left winger Ted Irvine, 14-flat.

Despite difficulty in finding a reliable left defenseman, Kelly plans to stay retired — at least until the National Hockey League playoffs in April.

One or two Kings, including aging goaltender Terry Sawchuk, are up for trade, and general manager Larry Regan told Flett, the club's leading goal scorer with 26 last season, to "get moving."

Flett pleaded he was saving himself for the regular season. Regan told him that the season may be spent in Springfield, Mass., site of the Kings' farm club.

BLUE LINES: Alan Eagleson, the lawyer who negotiated Bobby Orr's three-year $150,000 contract at Boston, is touring the training camp. He talked to some of the Kings last week.

The NHL isn't in the business of granting asylum to runaway hockey players. The Board of Governors made that clear last week when it placed a "temporary restriction" on the signing of any European amateur. Czechoslovakia has Europe's best hockey players next to its occupation, Russia.

The puck also was used to allow candidates for the Calder Cup (rookie award) up to 25 games of previous NHL experience, instead of 20.

Finally, they decided to let the Oakland Seals, whose move to Vancouver fell through, play five home games across the bay in the Cow Palace, near Involving the Kings. The object is to determine if there is significant difference between hockey interest in Oakland and San Francisco.

LAKERS FACE WARRIORS ON TV TONIGHT

The Lakers make their exhibition debut tonight in San Francisco against the Seattle Sonics.

There will be no radio or television coverage of the second game matching the Warriors and San Diego.

The Lakers play 11 exhibition games through Oct. 11. Their only appearance at the Forum in Inglewood will be Monday against San Francisco, Seattle and San Diego also play that evening in the opener.

Unenlightening Decision Won by Cub Directors

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—The Illinois Supreme Court has declined to hear a suit asking the Chicago Cubs be ordered to install lights at Wrigley Field for night games.

The court let stand an appellate court rejection of a suit by minority stockholders, led by William Shlensky, who claimed the club was guilty of negligence and mismanagement by keeping Wrigley Field the only major league ball park without lights.

Shlensky claimed the lack of night games hurt home attendance. He asked the courts to award damages and order the Cubs to install lights.

In rejecting the claim of negligence, the court said it could not rule "in the absence of a clear record showing dereliction of duty on the part of specific directors and mere failure to 'follow the crowd' is not such dereliction."

Countdown to Mexico: 2 Pre-Olympic Meets

Combined News Services

Two pre-Olympic track and field meets are scheduled this weekend as countdown to Mexico City continues.

Athletes from the United States, Canada, Jamaica, Trinidad, and Nationalist China will compete today in the 4,000-seat Centennial Stadium in Victoria, British Columbia.

U.S. stars Jimmy Hines, Ronnie Ray Smith and Charlie Greene, who have a world record 9.9 seconds pending for the 100-meters, will face Canada's Harry Jerome, who holds a share of the existing record of 10.0.

Also representing the U.S. will be 200-meter star John Carlos, long jumper Ralph Boston, and world discus record holder Jay Silvester.

Lawford, Like Many Stars, Is Sitting This Election Out

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peter Lawford, former brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert Kennedy, like many Hollywoodites is sitting out this election.

"Much as it pains me to say it, I think Nixon will win the election easily," said Lawford, divorced three years ago from Patricia Kennedy, the late president's sister.

Once an active participant in national politics, helping to raise money for Kennedy campaigns, the English-born Lawford is passing this one by.

"I'm going to vote for Snoopy or Pat Paulsen—in that order," he said wryly. Lawford isn't a hard-rock Democrat. But he loves the Kennedy family and did what he could in his limited way to help his distinguished in-laws during their lifetimes.

"I haven't worked for LAWFORD Hubert Humphrey, and I'm not going to," Lawford said. His former buddy, Frank Sinatra, is a strong Humphrey supporter, raising money at rallies for the vice president.

"There's no way a man can associate himself with the present administration and expect to get support from Hollywood people," said Lawford. "The vice president is caught in the middle. He can't disavow the President or the war, and yet I'm sure he hasn't any faith in it either."

Lawford is not the only quiet Hollywood political activist. Others who usually accompany candidates on the hustings are staying home.

"A producer asked me a few weeks ago to appear at a rally for Humphrey," Lawford said. "He said the apathy is terrible. He wanted to get a group of stars to go to a rally, and no one agreed to do it."

"I BELIEVE the loss of John Kennedy and Pope John will be felt for generations," Lawford went on. "They were changing the thinking of the world. So far as I'm concerned the only hope we have left is the young people. Sure, there are some fringe idiots who give the youth movement a bad name. But kids today don't want the truth swept under the carpet. It's nonsense that what was good enough for their fathers is good enough for them.

"They want a better world, and I wouldn't be surprised to see them do something about it in 1972."

Dog With Nose for Pot Sniffs Out Smugglers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The newest detective in the police department's narcotic division is a German shepherd with a nose for pot.

The 3-year-old dog named Ginger has an uncanny ability to uncover shipments of marijuana at the airport, railway terminals and other shipping points, said Capt. Al Tremblay, commander of the narcotics division.

"She leads us right to the packages of contraband merchandise," he said.

On her first assignment last month, Ginger led her handlers to 17 kilos of marijuana hidden in a shipment at International Airport that was destined for Baltimore. A suspect was arrested in that city when the package was claimed.

Miles Davis Concert Set at UCLA

Miles Davis and his quintet will perform Oct. 5 in UCLA's Royce Hall, the first concert in the 1968-69 Jazz at UCLA series.

Davis's group includes Wayne Shorter, tenor saxophone; Herbie Hancock, piano; Ron Carter, bass; and Tony Williams, drums.

Concert time is 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at UCLA's Concert Ticket Office, 10851 LeConte Ave., Westwood Village, and at all Mutual agencies.

Subsequent concerts will present Carmen McRae, with Benny Carter on alto saxophone, Oct. 19, and the Charles Lloyd Quartet, Jan. 18.

BOOK REVIEWS

A Queen's Story of Hawaii

HAWAII'S STORY BY HAWAII'S QUEEN LILIUOKALANI, Tuttle, $5.25.

UNWRITTEN LITERATURE OF HAWAII: The Sacred Songs of the Hula. Collected and translated, with notes and an account of the hula, by Nathaniel B. Emerson, Tuttle, $5.95.

Liliuokalani (1838-1917) was the last monarch of the Hawaiian Islands, and incidentally, she was the author of songs, including the famous Aloha Oe (Farewell to Thee). She was King Kalakaua's sister, and succeeded him to the throne in 1891. That same year her husband, John O. Dominis, American governor of Oahu, died.

Four years before Liliuokalani came to the throne, the Hawaiian sugar planters, most of whom were Americans, successfully plotted a revolution against the native dynastic interests, obtaining a government they influenced and a liberal constitution. When Liliuokalani became queen she revoked the constitution and gave herself autocratic powers.

THE AMERICANS, led by Sanford Dole, set up a revolutionary "committee of safety" to overthrow the native government. They had the support of the U.S. minister to Hawaii, John L. Stevens, who, setting a pattern that became standard practice later, ordered Marines landed "to protect American life and property." The "committee of safety" occupied the government buildings, and Stevens, without consulting the State Department, recognized the revolutionary regime, proclaiming Hawaii a U.S. protectorate.

Later an investigator sent by President Cleveland ordered the Marines withdrawn and a treaty of annexation to the U.S. failed in the Senate. Cleveland ordered Liliuokalani restored to power, but the provisional government's president, Dole, refused to surrender.

THE HIGH COMMISSIONER — Rod Taylor, Christopher Plummer, Lilli Palmer have star roles in story about an Australian murder case involving the country's high commissioner. Based on best-selling novel by Jon Cleary. Mature audiences.

THE THOMAS CROWN AFFAIR — Insurance sleuth Faye Dunaway suspects thrill-seeking millionaire Steve McQueen of master-minding a bank robbery, and proceeds to prove it. Mature audiences.

THE FOX — Latent lesbian relationship between two young women in isolated Canadian farm is shattered with the arrival of an attractive man. Adults.

power, and the Republic of Hawaii was proclaimed. Cleveland then recognized it.

THE QUEEN'S autobiography, long unavailable, is now, fortunately, reissued by Tuttle, that Vermont and Tokyo publisher with the felicitous ability to dig up real treasures of earlier days in the Pacific and the Orient. Here the events that led to the annexation of her islands by the United States are seen through the eyes of the woman who lost her kingdom through machinations later to be repeated time and again in the Caribbean.

Old Hawaii lives in these pages, as do the United States and Europe (she knew Queen Victoria, whom she resembled in many ways, well, and was a White House guest). She was, in truth, every inch a queen, and her superb dignity shines through her pages.

NATHANIEL Emerson's "Unwritten Literature of Hawaii" was written in 1909 for the Bureau of American Ethnology, which for nearly 100 years has preserved the myths, legends, folklore and folk music of our Indian tribes, the Eskimos and the Hawaiians. Dr. Emerson was in the true tradition of scholarship and sprightliness which has been characteristic of the bureau's publications. His book has been hard to come by for many years.

The songs and the hula dance of which Emerson writes are the real thing — not the corrupted, tin-pan-alleyish versions which we have been fed.

"IF ONE comes to the study of the hula and its songs in the spirit of a censorious moralist he will find nothing for him," he writes; "if as a pure ethnologist, he will take pleasure in pointing out the physical resemblances of the Hawaiian dance to the languorous grace of the Nautch girls or the geisha, and other oriental dancers. But if he comes as a student and lover of human nature, back of the sensuous posturings, in the emotional language of the songs he will find himself entering the playground of the human race." We are given both the Hawaiian and the English words to the songs; the lilt of the Hawaiian language is easy to see, even for one who does not know that language; that beauty comes through in the translations. The hula, we learn, was a religious rite combining poetry, pantomime, music and the dance into a dramatic art. It sang of gods and goddesses, and godlike men and women. —Nat Honig
